Listen & read (@)

The students listen to the texts and read them. You can play back the podcasts if you have access to the Internet. Alternatively, you can read the texts aloud to the students. If you read the texts yourself, make them sound as natural as possible. You should change your voice as necessary and use lots of expression. Please refer to the lesson notes for more specific suggestions about how to use different texts.

Listen (@)

For these activities, the focus is on developing listening skills. You can play back the podcasts or read the texts aloud to the students. The texts are at the back of the Student’s Book, on page 104, but the students should not read them as they listen. At a later time the students can read the texts by themselves for additional reading practice.

Speak

These are oral activities. The students will begin to use the new language that has been introduced under the guidance of the teacher.

Your turn

These activities are designed for pair and group work. They follow the introduction of new structures and vocabulary, and provide important practice in listening and speaking.

Listen & repeat (@)

These are pronunciation activities, all of which are available as podcasts. The students listen and repeat the sounds (or words) that they hear. For these activities, the focus is on pronouncing difficult sounds and on stressing the words correctly (particularly words which look the same, or similar, in English and French).

Write

The students can complete these activities individually, writing their answers in their exercise books. The answers are provided in this guide.
The new vocabulary words for each sequence are given in the ‘MY WORD BANK’ feature. These words can be introduced before or after the listening and reading passages.

Additionally, the French translations (and parts of speech) are given in alphabetical order in the ‘MY WORD BANK’ section at the back of the Student’s Book (pages 109-112). The students will need to refer to the word banks when they do written exercises, and when they complete oral activities in pairs and groups.

As new structures are introduced, the ‘Grammar check’ boxes provide support for the students. These boxes explain grammar rules in very simple English. They also underpin the ‘Example’ prompts that show the students what they need to do.

Further notes and tables are also given in the Grammar section at the back of the Student’s Book (pages 105-108). Encourage the students to refer to this section as they work.

This feature gives help with the pronunciation of different sounds introduced in the course. The students can listen as you say the sounds and words, and then repeat them.

Revision activities are provided at the end of each unit on the ‘Time to check’ page. They will help you to check the progress of the students. These activities can also be used for homework or class tests. The answers are provided in this guide.

Projects form an important part of this course. They motivate the students and allow them to practise their new language skills in real situations.

A new project is given at the end of every second sequence. Each project requires the use of the vocabulary and language structures that have been introduced and practised in the preceding sequences.

The students should work in groups on these projects. When they have completed each project, they will be asked to assess their own achievements. This will help them to be aware of their own progress.

It is important to display the work of the students on the walls of the classroom. This will motivate the students and it will also provide additional reading material for the students. Projects can form the basis of ‘talking walls’ in the classroom. ‘Talking walls’ in a classroom provide interesting reading material. You can put up any English materials (poems, articles and pictures with captions) for the students to read. Remember to change the materials often so that there is always something new to read.

The students can read stories, solve puzzles, play games – and practise English at the same time. This will help to motivate them. It allows them to use English in real situations and to play with the language.

The Workbook provides additional activities. Most of them are writing activities. The students can complete them individually, writing down their responses in the Workbook. They can complete the activities either in class or for homework. The answers are provided in this guide.

There are also a few additional listening activities, indicated by the symbol @. For these activities the students will need your help. You should play back the podcast or read the texts aloud to them.

All the listening texts and pronunciation activities in this course are available as podcasts on the Internet. They can be played back, free of charge, at the website www.edicef.com. As previously indicated, next to these types of activity you will see the symbol @.

- Student’s Book pages 8-15.
- Workbook pages 3-6.
- Name tags for the students.
- PC/laptop with Internet access, if available (recording/podcast available at www.edicef.com).
- Pieces of paper with numbers 0-20. |

Warm up

Introduce yourself to the class. The students can make name tags to wear in the first sequences, if they do not already know each other well.

Introduce the students to the textbook (Keep in touch).

Listen & repeat

1. Tell the students that they are going to listen to a dialogue. Let them look at the picture in their books and try to follow as they listen.

Introduce the main characters that feature in this book: Rafiatou, Ida, Ali, Comlan and Mrs Bello, the teacher. Tell the students that they will get to know these characters and their friends and families during the year.

Then read the text aloud or play back the podcast. Introduce the students to MY WORD BANK in their text books. These word banks provide a list of all the new words introduced in the listening and reading texts. Read the words to the students and let them repeat the words. Make sure they understand what the words mean. Then read the text aloud again or play back the podcast.

Let a few students volunteer to read the dialogue they have listened to or let the students get into groups (5 students in a group) and read the dialogue.

NOTE

If you do not have the recording, read the dialogues aloud in a natural and expressive way. Try to change your voice as each person speaks.

There is a complete list of vocabulary words, with French translations, in MY WORD BANK on pages 109-112 of the Student’s Book.

Speak

2. Let the student’s greet each other and say their names. They can do this in groups or as a whole class. Make sure the learners understand the difference between ‘my’ and ‘your’. You do not have to teach possessive adjectives formally at this stage.

Learning situation 1 - Sequence 1
Listen & repeat

3 Focus on the sound /h/. Play the recording (available on line) or read the words aloud carefully. Students repeat the words. Take care that they pronounce the /h/ sounds at the beginning of each word.

Listen

4 Play back the podcast. The students can look at the picture as they listen. Read the words in MY WORD BANK. Make sure the learners know what the words mean. They can look up the French translations in MY WORD BANK on pages 109-112 in their books. Then play back the podcast again.

NOTE
The listening texts are at the back of the Student’s Book on page 104. The aim of these texts is to provide listening practice. The students should not read these texts during this part of the lesson, but of course they can read them later for reading practice.

Speak

5 Teach the present simple tense of the verb ‘to be’. The students will have to learn this irregular verb form. Point out the Grammar check on page 9. Note that only the singular forms are practised. Then let the students play the chain game in order to practise greetings and the verb ‘to be’ orally. Read the text in the speech bubbles with the class and explain how the game words.

NOTE
There is more information for the students in the Grammar section at the back of the Student’s Book. Introduce the students to these pages and encourage them to refer to this section when they want to check on their grammar. The verb ‘to be’ is on pages 105-106.

Write

6 The students copy and complete the sentences in their exercise books. They should use the full forms (and not contractions) when they write sentences.

Answers
a What is your name?
b He is Ali.
c She is Rafiatou.
d She is Mrs Bello.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES
• Dictate a few words or two very short sentences to the students. Use words from MY WORD BANK and structures from the Grammar checks in the lesson.
• Write the conjugation of the verb ‘to be’ or some simple sentences with this verb on the board. Erase some of the pronouns or verb forms. Invite students to complete the sentences.
• Students can read the dialogue on page 104 of their books (activity 4 page 9).
• Students can complete the activities on page 3 of their Workbooks. These activities can also be used as homework tasks.

Answers to Workbook activities

1 a) hello b) good c) name
d) morning e) class f) your

2 a) He is Steve.
b) She is Mrs Smith.
c) They are Emily and Paul.

3 a) Hello. My name is Awa.
b) Good morning. I am Ali.
c) Hello. I am Doudou.
d) Hi. My name is Idah.
Warm up
Sing an alphabet song in English.

Listen & repeat

1. Play the alphabet on the podcast or read the alphabet aloud. Let the students repeat it. You may wish to tell the students that the letters don’t always sound like this when they are combined with other letters in words.

Listen & read

2. Play back the podcast. The students follow the text in their books. Read the words in MY WORD BANK. Make sure the learners know what the words mean. Then play the podcast again. Ask a few simple questions about the dialogue, for example: Where is Ida from? Where is Rafiatou from? Who is Rafiatou’s friend? Let the pupils read the dialogue aloud in groups of three. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct. It is best to do this by playing the podcast again if necessary or by modelling the sentences.

NOTE
The spelling of vowel sounds varies a lot in English. Sometimes there are rules that help the students to remember the spelling, but often the spelling has just to be learned.

Listen & repeat

3. Focus on the vowel sound /aɪ/. The sound is shown in red in the words in the activity. Play back the text on the podcast or read the words aloud carefully. Students repeat the words.

Speak

4. Tell the students that it is now their turn to introduce a friend to the rest of the class. They will work in pairs for this activity. Read the text in the speech bubbles in the pictures and explain that this is what they have to do. Give them a few minutes to practise and then let them introduce their friends to the rest of the class. The students should use the natural contracted forms of the verb to be in this oral activity. Help them to pronounce the end sound /z/ in these contractions correctly.

Write

5. Students copy and complete the sentences in their exercise books. They choose the correct word to complete each sentence.

Answers
a) Hello. How are you?  c) She is my friend.
b) Hello. I’m fine, thanks.  d) He is from Lomé.

6. Students complete the sentences with words that make sense and are grammatically correct. They should give personal answers about themselves and their real friends.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES
• Dictate a few words or two very short sentences to the students. Use words from MY WORD BANK and structures from the Grammar checks in the lesson.
• Write some words from MY WORD BANK on the board without space between the words. For example: from friend thanks. Ask the students to come up and circle the words that they can find. This will help them to start recognizing English words.
• Students can complete the activities on page 4 of their Workbooks.

NOTE
Additional listening and pronunciation activities have been included in the Workbook in some lessons. The texts for these activities are on the line, but you and the students can also do the activities if you do not have the recording.

Warm up
Find out if the students know any numbers in English.

Listen & repeat
1. Teach the numbers 0-20. Play back the podcast or read the numbers aloud. Let the students repeat the numbers. Let the students work in pairs to practise the numbers. One student can write a number and the other student can say the number in English and point to the number word in the books.

Listen & read
2. Play back the podcast or read the text aloud. The students follow the text in their books. Read the words in MY WORD BANK. Make sure the learners know what the words mean. Then play the recording again. Let the pupils read the dialogue aloud in groups of three. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct. It is best to do this by playing the recording again if necessary or by modelling the sentences.

Read & speak
3. Read the questions with the class or with a group of students. They should say if each sentence is true or false. If a sentence is false, they should try and correct it.

Answers
a) False. Ida is thirteen years old.  b) True.  c) False. Ali is fourteen years old.  d) False. It is afternoon.  e) True.

Speak
4. Students can work in pairs and practise these numbers. Make sure that they stress the number words from 13-20 correctly (thirteen, fourteen, etc.) and that they say the end sounds /iː/ correctly.

5. Teach the students to use the negative with the verb ‘to be’ as in the Grammar check. Refer to the Grammar check. Students work in pairs.

Answers
a) Are you thirteen years old?  b) Is she twelve years old?  c) Is he fourteen years old?

Write
6. Students write about themselves using the model text alongside the activity.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES
- Dictate a few words or two very short sentences to the students. Use words from MY WORD BANK and structures from the Grammar checks.
- Write some words from MY WORD BANK on the board without space between the words. For example: afternoonpleaseyearstudent. Ask the students to come up and circle the words that they can find.
- Students can play a game with numbers. For example: write numbers in numerals on small pieces of paper (12, 7, 20, etc.). Put the numbers in a box or packet. Students work in small groups. Each student picks a number from the packet and says the number in English. If it is correct, the student gets one point. Each student has a turn until there are no more numbers in the box. If a student does not give a correct answer, he or she misses their next turn.
- Students complete the activities of their Workbooks.

4. a) Mrs Smith is a teacher.
   b) Anna is a girl.
   c) John is a boy.
   d) David is not nineteen years old.
Warm up

You can start this sequence by revising the English alphabet. The students are also going to learn about days of the week and months, so write the date on the board in English and say it aloud. If you have a calendar with the names of the days and months in English hang this up in your classroom. If you have a French calendar, you could write the English names on strips of paper and paste them over or next to the French names.

NOTE: Project

The students will complete a project at the end of this sequence. Most of the preparation for the project has already been done sequence 1. However, you should revise the structures and vocabulary needed for the project as necessary, to build the students’ confidence.

The structures needed for the project are: What is your name? How old are you? Where are you from? This is… She/He is [+ age]. She/He is from…

Read & speak

1. Read the dialogue in the speech bubbles to the students while they follow the words in their books.
2. Talk about the pictures. Let the students try and say what, and who, they can see in the pictures. Read the dates and days on the board.

Speak

3. Read the questions and let the students answer them orally.

Let the students work in small groups for a short while. They can practise spelling their names and the names of other students in the group. They can also take turns to say the alphabet. For variation, let them try and say the alphabet backwards. Then teach the names of the days of the week.

Listen & repeat

4. Tell the students that they are going to listen to the way we pronounce the names of the days of the week. Play back the podcast or read the names aloud, taking care to stress the first syllable in each name. Let the students repeat the names and then listen again. Explain that in English we write the names of days and months with capital letters.

Focus on the sound /eɪ/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Let the students practise saying the words aloud. You may wish to point out that many (but not all!) words in English that end in -ay and a_e have this /eɪ/ vowel sound.

Listen

Play back the podcast or read the dialogues yourself. The students can look at the pictures as they listen. Read the words in MY WORD BANK. Make sure the students know what the words mean (they can look up the French translations in MY WORD BANK on pages 109-112 of the Student’s Book). Then play back the podcast again.

The listening text for this lesson is at the back of the Student’s Book, on page 104.

Speak

The students can work in pairs and make up sentences about the pictures in the previous activity. Read the example sentences with them first. Teach the contracted forms and the preposition at as shown in the Grammar check.

Let the students use the natural, contracted forms of it is, we are and they are when they speak.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Dictate a few words or two very short sentences to the students. Use the words from MY WORD BANK and structures from the Grammar checks.
- Write some simple sentences with the full forms of the verb to be on the board. Then ask the students how they say these words. Invite the students to change the full forms of the pronouns and verbs to contracted forms.

- The students can read the dialogue for activity 6 on page 104.
- The students can work in pairs. One student can make a sentence about one of the pictures in activity 6 and the other student can say which day of the week it is. For example:
  STUDENT A: Rafiatou and Ida are at school.
  STUDENT B: It’s Monday!
- The students can complete the activities on page 7 of their Workbooks. These activities can also be used as homework tasks.

---

   c) Thursday
   d) Saturday

   JESSICA: I’m from Kenya.
   SICA: What’s your name?
   JESSICA: My name’s Jessica.
   SICA: Please spell your name. / Can you spell your name?
Listen & read

1 Play back the podcast or read the text aloud. The students follow the text in their books. This dialogue introduces the structure What is it? and some important verbs. Let the students read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct. Teach a/an as you introduce the classroom vocabulary shown in the pictures in activity 2. Refer to the Grammar check. Explain that the reason for this rule is simply to make phrases easier to pronounce.

Your turn

2 Read the words under the pictures to the students. Then let them work in pairs and ask and answer questions, as in the example.

Speak

3 Teach the imperative forms of the verbs that have been introduced so far. We use the verb stem (the infinitive form without to) and we use the same form for singular and plural. Refer to the grammar check. Check that the students are able to pronounce words with an /e/ sound correctly. Refer to the pronunciation check and read the words with the students. You can make up simple sentences with these sounds for the students to repeat. For example: The show is open in November. We go to the show in October. The students then work in pairs and match the sentences with the pictures.

Answers
a Take out your book.
b Sit down.
c Listen!
d Stand up.
f Show me a pen.

4 Teach the game ‘Simon Says’. You can play the game with the whole class. The students can also play the game in groups once they are familiar with it. Try to teach the game in English, using simple rules and actions. The students will soon understand the game. For example: I say, “Simon Says, ‘Sit down’: You sit down. (make a gesture) I say, ‘Sit down.’ You don’t sit down. (gesture) Note that there are some phrasal verbs (sit down, take out and stand up) in this lesson. You do not need to teach a lesson on phrasal verbs at this stage, just introduce the words as part of the new vocabulary.

Write

5 The students write the sentences with the words they are given. Tell the students to look out for punctuation clues that will help them to know which words start or end a sentence. You could introduce the imperative form of the verb to do at this stage. It is useful for giving instructions, such as: Do this in your exercise book. Do this activity for homework.

Answers
a Take out your book.
b Today is Monday.
c Show me a pen.
d Rafiatou is at home.
e What is it?
f Is this an eraser?

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Practise spelling and vocabulary with the words in MY WORD BANK. Give the students a short dictation.
• Write some words from the lesson on the board without space between the words and let the students find the words. For example: eraserboardbagruler.
• The students can read the dialogue for activity 1 of their books, in pairs.
• Teach the students to play ‘Kim’s Game’ with school objects. 1. Put a selection of objects on a table, for example: three rulers, two bags, one calculator, four erasers and six pens. Let the students look at the objects on the table for 30 seconds. They have to try and remember what they see on the table. They may not write down what they see.
• 2. When 30 seconds has passed, remove the objects from the table (or cover them). The students try to give a list of the objects that were on the table. You can increase the number of objects on the table and let the students play the game in groups once they know how to play it.
• You could also teach a version of the game ‘Twenty Questions’. The students work in groups and take turns. The first student thinks of a classroom object. The other students have to try and guess what the first student is thinking about, by asking questions. The first student may only answer, ‘Yes’ or ‘No’. The game could go like this.

STUDENT 1: What is it?
STUDENT 2: Is it a pen?
STUDENT 1: No.
STUDENT 3: Is it a calculator?
STUDENT 1: No.
STUDENT 4: Is it an eraser?
STUDENT 1: Yes!

The student who guesses correctly gets the next turn.

• The students can complete the activities on page 8 of their Workbooks.

1 a) a pen
   b) a pencil
   c) a board
   d) a ruler
   e) a calculator
   f) a bag
   g) an eraser
   h) a book

2 Do this activity with the class. Play back the podcast or read a word or phrase in each group of words. The students circle the words that they hear.
   a) November
   b) an eraser
   c) sixteen books
   d) go

3 a) Is it a ruler/pen/bag/...?
b) Is it a ruler/pen/bag/...?
c) Is it a bag?
d) What is it? / What's this?

4 a) Take out your books.
   b) Open your book.
   c) Show me a pencil.
   d) Write the date.

Listen & repeat

1 Find out if the students know any of the names of the months in English. Then play back the podcast or read the names aloud while they listen. The students will need to pay attention to the word stress and the vowel sounds in these names, as many of the names look similar to the French words, but are pronounced differently. The students also need to know that in English the names of months (and the days of the week) are always written with capital letters.

Listen & read

2 Ask the students what the date is and tell them how to say the date in English. This routine should become part of every lesson until the students know the dates well. You can introduce ordinal numbers (second, third, etc) orally so that the students get used to hearing the numbers.

Play back the podcast or read the dialogue aloud. Make sure the students understand the words in MY WORD BANK.

Note that in some countries, the month is given before the date, for example: Today is October 2nd, 2010.

Speak

3 Teach the students how to say the years in English, if you haven’t already done this. Refer to the Grammar check. Note that for the years from 2010 onwards, many people say twenty ten and twenty eleven instead of two thousand and ten and two thousand and eleven.

Read the questions and let the students suggest and discuss the answers. You may have to explain the joke in the last part of the dialogue (Why does Mrs Bello say: Are you sure? – Because the year that Ali gives is 2209, which cannot be correct.)

Answers
   a) It's Tuesday, the second of October.
   b) October.
   c) Tuesday.
   d) No!
   e) No, it isn’t. It’s Tuesday.
Your turn

4 The students work in pairs. They should ask and answer questions about dates, days, weeks, years and months. They can use any available calendars, diaries, computers or mobile phones that have this information. One student points to a day/week/month/year and asks: What’s the...? The other student replies: It’s...

Write

5 Explain to the students (if they are not familiar with this type of puzzle) that they have to find the hidden words. They should find the names of months and days and copy them correctly into their exercise books.

Answers
The words hidden in the ‘wordsearch’ puzzle are: Monday, June, May, Tuesday, Wednesday, August, November, February, Sunday.

6 The students choose the correct words and copy the sentences into their exercise books. This could be a homework task.

Answers
a) What’s the date today?
b) It is Monday today.
c) January is a month.
d) Write the date on the board.
e) Today is the first of July.
f) Read the date, class.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES
• Practise the spelling of the names of the months and the words in MY WORD BANK. Give the students a short dictation.
• Teach the students a rhyme or song about the months of the year. For example:
  Thirty days in September,
  April, June and November.
  In all the rest there are thirty-one Except for February – That’s a funny one!
• The students can read the dialogue for activity 2 in groups.
• The students can complete the activities on page 9 of their Workbooks.

PROJECT CORNER

This is the first project that the students will do. Explain to the students that they will do this project in pairs. In the project they will be able to show off their new language skills as they introduce a friend to the rest of the class.

STEP 1

One student interviews the other student. The students should write down the questions that they will ask and then write down the answers as well:

1. What is your name?
2. How old are you?
3. Where are you from?

The students should know the constructions and vocabulary needed for these questions.

STEP 2

Each student writes a paragraph about the friend they have interviewed. They may write something like this: This is my friend. Her name is Catherine. She is 13. She is from Porto-Novo.

STEP 3

Each student has a chance to present his/her friend to the rest of the class. The students use the paragraphs they have written.

After the students have presented their friends to the class, ask them to think about what they have done and let them assess their own work. They should answer the assessment questions at the bottom of the page in an honest way. You can then offer your own comments on what the students have achieved and explain why you agree or disagree with the students’ self-assessment.

It may take the students a while to get used to the idea of assessing their own work, but it is important for them to take charge of their own learning, and to be honest about what they have learned.
Learning situation 2: This is my family

Sequence 1

This is my family

Warm up
Introduction the sequence by showing the students a photograph of your own family, if you have one available. Tell the class (in English) about the members of your family. If you do not have a photograph, draw a picture or use any picture from a newspaper or magazine. Ask the students to bring in photographs of their own families if they can. If this is not possible, let them draw pictures. The work in this unit will help to prepare the students for the project. The project requires them to build a family tree. You could introduce the idea of a family tree in your warm up activity as well.

Listen
➊ Play back the podcast or read the text while the students listen and follow in their books. Let the students practise saying the names of family members. Make sure that they stress the words correctly, placing the stress on first syllable: mother, father, sister, brother, uncle, cousin, grandmother, grandfather.

Speak
➋ Teach the verb to have. Refer to the Grammar check. Then let the students practise the verb with the new vocabulary. If the students have brought in their own family photographs or drawn pictures of their families, let them use these for further practise. The students can label their pictures first and then work in groups, referring to the pictures and making sentences like You have a sister. She has a brother. We have a mother.

Listen & repeat
➌ Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Try to say the /ð/ sound very clearly and show the students how your mouth and tongue form the sound. The sound is quite tricky and the students may need a lot of practise to get it correct (it is a dental fricative, not aspirated, so it is not the same as the sound /θ/ as in three, for example).

| – Photographs or drawings of family members.
Make a few sentences with words that have this sound and let the students repeat them. For example: This is the father. That is the mother.

Listen

4 Play back the podcast or read the text with expression. Pay attention to the intonation of the sentences, particularly the questions and exclamations. You do not need to teach a formal lesson on intonation at this stage, but try to make sure that the students hear, and start to use, the correct intonation.

Ask the students who they think Daddy is. Find out if they know any other informal names for family members, for example: Dad, Mummy, Mum, Grandpa and Grandma.

Teach the use of the possessive form ('s). Refer to the Grammar check. In English we do not usually say, for example, the family of Awa. Instead we say Rafiatou's family.

Teach the difference between this and that. This is best done with a simple demonstration. This usually refers to the person or thing that is closest to you or the first person or thing that you mention. That refers to a person or thing that is further away or is the second person or thing that you mention.

Read the words in MY WORD BANK and make sure that the students understand what they mean. Then play back the podcast or read the text again.

Your turn

5 Teach the contracted forms of the verbs as shown in the Grammar check. The students work in pairs. They can look at any picture of a family and make sentences using the contracted form.

6 Working with the same partner, the students make oral sentences about their own families.

Write

7 The students choose the correct words and copy the sentences into their exercise books.

Answers

a aunt       d have, a b grandmother e has c sister f many

8 The students write down the oral sentences they practised in activity 6.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Dictate a few words or two very short sentences to the students. Use words from MY WORD BANK and structures from the Grammar checks in the lesson.
• Practise contractions again. Write some simple sentences with the full forms of verb to be on the board. Then ask the students how we say these words. Invite the students to change the full forms of the pronouns and verbs to contracted forms.
• Practise the verb to have. Write some sentences on the board and invite the students to come up and complete the sentences with have or has.
• The students can listen to the podcasts again.
• The students can read the dialogue for lesson 1 (page 104), in groups of three.
• The students can complete the activities on pages 11 and 12 of their Workbooks. You can do activity 2 with the students if a podcast is not available.
Listen & read

1. Read and discuss the meaning of the words in MY WORD BANK. Then play back the podcast or read the text aloud. Ask a few simple questions about the text and then play back the podcast or read the text again.

Let the pupils read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Speak

2. Let the students discuss whether the sentences are true or false. Then let them correct the false sentences.

Answers
- a False. Rafiatou's mother is a housewife.
- b True.
- c False. Rafiatou's mother works at home.
- d False. Rafiatou's mother works at home. OR Ida's mother teaches French at school.
- e False. Ida's mother teaches French at school.

Listen & repeat

3. Focus on the vowel sound /uː/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Let the students practise saying the words aloud. Let the students notice that there are different ways of spelling this sound in English. There are no useful rules; the students just need to learn to recognise and write these high frequency (or 'sight') words correctly. You could make a list of words like this on a poster in your classroom and use the list to practise the words from time to time.

Your turn

4. Teach the verb to do as auxiliary in positive questions and in short answers. Refer to the Grammar check.

Then let the students ask and answer questions about the pictures.

Answers
- a Yes, she does. She's a banker.
- b No, he doesn't.
- c Yes, she does. She's a secretary.
- d Yes, he does. He's a taxi driver.
- e Yes, she does. She's a nurse.

Write

5. The students practise using the forms of the auxiliary verb to do. They write the sentences in their exercise books.

Answers
- a Does she work at the bank? Yes, she does.
- b Do you have a sister? No, I don't.
- c Does he teach French? No, he doesn't.
- d Do they have grandparents? No, they don't.

6. The students make appropriate questions to match the short answers. You may wish to do a few examples with the students before they write their own questions.

Answers
- a Does she teach English?
- b Do you work in a bank?
- c Does he have two brothers?
- d Do they work?

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Practise spelling by taking words from the word banks pages 24-26. Jumble up the letters and let the students write them correctly. Or write the words on the board with some of the letters missing and let them try to fill in the missing letters.
- Write some questions about the family pictures on page 24 or about any other family photographs or drawings. Let the students give short answers. For example: Does he have three brothers? Does he have a mummy? Does he have one grandmother?
- The students can read the dialogue page 26 in pairs.
- The students can complete the activities on page 13 and 14 of their Workbooks.
1 doctor: hospital (or clinic); housewife: home; banker: bank; teacher: school; nurse: clinic (or hospital)

2 Use the podcast or read the texts aloud yourself. Read one of the words/groups of words. The students can also do this activity in pairs.
   a) you
   b) pool
   c) blue
   d) two blue shoes

4 a) I’m Helen. I’m a teacher. I work in a school. My sister, Careen, is a nurse. She works in a clinic. My brother, Bradley, is a banker. He works in a bank. Do you work in school?
   b) He’s a student. Does his mother work? No, his mother is a housewife. She works at home.

5 (mostly personal answers, using one of the options below)
   a) Yes, he does. / No, he doesn’t.
   b) Yes, I do. / No, I don’t.
   c) Yes, she does. / No, she doesn’t.
   d) Yes, I do.

6 HELEN: Hi, Dave. Do you have a pencil?
   DAVE: No, I don’t.
   HELEN: Does your friend have a pencil?
   DAVE: No, he doesn’t. His name is Frank!
   HELEN: Hi, Frank! Do you have a ruler?
   FRANK: Yes, I do.
   HELEN: Thanks, Frank.

7 a) Auguste
    b) Sarah
    c) Peter
    d) Kate

Listen & read

1 Play back the podcast or read the text. Then play or read the text again and let the students try to follow in their books as they listen.

Read and discuss the new vocabulary in MY WORD BANK and ask a few questions to check comprehension. For example: Is it Sunday? What day is it? Where are they? Are they at school?

Introduce and start to teach the present continuous tense. Explain that the tense is used to describe actions that are happening at the moment/at present. Do not go into detail about the different uses of the present simple and present continuous tenses at this stage. We use the verb to be + the verb stem + -ing to form this tense. Focus on saying and recognising the tense at this stage.

Speak

2 Help the students to choose the correct word in each sentence and to say the correct sentences aloud.

Answers
   a) Comlan’s sister is cooking pounded yam.
   b) Comlan is at home. It is Saturday.
   c) The children are playing in the yard.
   d) Comlan’s grandparents are old.
   e) Comlan’s cousins are visiting the home.

Listen & repeat

3 Focus on the end sound /ŋ/ in verbs in the continuous form. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud slowly. Let the students repeat the words several times. Make sure that they stress the words correctly as well. The stress does not fall on the /ŋ/, but on the first syllables.

4 Focus on the pronunciation of numbers between 20 and 50. Play back the podcast or read the numbers aloud. Let the students repeat the numbers several times. Make sure they stress the numbers correctly as well: twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, etc.

The students should note the way we spell numbers like twenty-one with a hyphen.
Speak

The students can practise saying the numbers in pairs or groups. They can also write numbers on pieces of paper and ask other students to say the numbers aloud. They could make this into a game.

Your turn

First teach and practise the forming of the continuous tense with all the verbs that the students already know. You can also teach the spelling rules for regular verbs (such as to come) at this stage: if the verb stem ends in -e, we omit the e before we add -ing. With some verbs we also double the last consonant (for example: sitting, hopping). You can teach that rule when the students meet verbs that double the consonant.

Answers
a They are dancing.
b She is reading.
c He is listening (to music).
d She is sitting./ She is telling a story.

Write

The students write sentences about the pictures in the present continuous tense.

Answers
a She is sleeping.
b They are playing.
c He is cooking.
d They are working.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Dictate a few simple sentences in the present continuous tense.
- The students can complete the activities on page 15 and 16 of their Workbooks. You can do activity 2 with the students if a podcast is not available. In activity 3 the students are introduced to the language of doing simple arithmetic. This is not in the Student’s Book, but it is easily learned.

SB p. 31

The students can complete the activities on this page when they have finished their other work. You may have to explain some of the activities to the students.

1 The students use the clues to complete the crossword puzzle. They should copy the puzzle into their exercise books. They must not write in their textbooks.

4 aunt
5 one
6 rice

The word running down the middle in the shaded blocks is doctor.

2 In this activity one student mimes an action and the other students have to guess what he or she is doing. You can work out with the students how many turns each group should have to guess the correct answer and how the scoring system should work.

3 This activity provides extra practice with numbers. One student says a number aloud and the other student has to point to the number.
Learning situation 2: This is my family

Sequence 2

Homes

SEQUENCE SUMMARY

TOPICS
Homes, furniture items, time.

SKILLS
Listen to and understand simple English. Orally communicate simple information. Read and understand simple English.

FUNCTIONS/NOTIONS
Give the time. Describe things and places. Describe what people are doing.

GRAMMAR
Possessive pronouns (his and her). Asking questions (Is there...? Are these...? Do you have...? What are they ...-ing? What's the time? How many...? When do...?) Verb to do as auxiliary, present simple tense. Imperative form: to be. More plurals. Prepositions (in, at, for).

PHONOLOGY

VOCABULARY
also, animal, basin, bathroom, bed, bedroom, big, black, bread, breakfast, chair, chicken, compound, cupboard, donkey, evening, flat, fridge, fruit, goat, her, here, his, hut, kitchen, late, light, living room, lots, lunch, mat, milk, of course, our, sink, shower, small, sofa, still, stove, table, television, toilet, to drink, to eat, to hurry up, to live, to look at, to love, to relax, to sit, to start, to wake up, to watch

PREPARATION
You will need:
- Student’s Book pages 32-39.
- PC/laptop with Internet access available.
- Pictures of different types of homes and compounds from magazines and newspapers.

Warm up
Use any pictures that you have to introduce this topic. Introduce the word flat and ask the students where they live. Some students may be more familiar with the American word for flat, which is apartment. The work will help to prepare the students for the project page 39. The project requires them to draw or write a very simple poem (about their dream home).

Listen

➊ Let the students look at the photographs in their book and tell you what they see. Try to get them to use the words there is and there are when they talk about the photographs. Then read the text aloud or play back the podcast.

Teach the possessive adjectives his and her. Explain that we use his or her depending on the person to whom something belongs, her for women and girls and him for men and boys. Nouns in English do not have genders and adjectives do not ‘agree’ with them.

Speak

➋ Read the text aloud again or play back the podcast. The students can read and answer the questions orally.

Answers
a It’s in Cotonou.
b Her father, mother, brothers and sister live with her.
c No, it’s small.
d No, he doesn’t. He lives in a house.
e His parents, his sister and his aunt live with him.

Listen & repeat

➌ Here the focus is on the end sounds of plural words, /s/ and /z/. Read the text aloud or play back the podcast, and then let the students practise saying the words. These end sounds in English are not stressed, but they are not silent.
Listen

4. Let the students look at the photograph in their book and tell you what they see. Read and explain the words in MY WORD BANK. Then read the text aloud or play back the podcast. Ask a few questions to check comprehension, for example: Are there animals in the compound? What do the people in the compound do?

Your turn

5. Revise the present continuous tense and then let the students ask each other questions about the photograph.

Write

6. Students write regular plural forms of nouns. Refer to the grammar check.
   Answers
   - flats, huts, cousins, animals, goats, trees, donkeys

7. Students complete sentences with the possessive adjectives his and her.
   Answers
   - Rafiatou lives with her family in a flat. Her mother, father, sister and brothers live with her. Comlan lives in a house with his family. His parents, his sister and his aunt also live in the house.

8. Students complete sentences with words that make sense, from the word banks in the lesson.
   Answers
   - Rafiatou’s cousins live in a big compound. There are chickens, a donkey/hut and goats in the compound.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Dictate a few sentences with his and her in them. Try to include some plural nouns as well.
- Students can write answers to activity 2.
- Students can read the text for lesson 1 on page 104 of their books by themselves or listen the recording again or read with a partner.
- Students can complete the activities on pages 18 and 19 of their Workbooks. You can do activity 3 with students if the podcast is not available.
Listen & read

1. Introduce the names of the main rooms in a house. Then read the text aloud or play back the podcast.
   Ask a few simple questions about the text and then play back the podcast or read the text again.
   Let the pupils read the dialogue aloud in pairs.
   Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Speak

2. Teach How many and the use of to do as an auxiliary verb in questions in which the main verb is also to do. Refer to the Grammar check on page 35.
   Play the recording or read the text again.
   The students can read and answer the questions orally.

   Answers
   a. Rafiatou and her family live in the flat.
   b. There are six rooms.
   c. Yes, there is.
   d. Rafiatou sleeps in a bedroom.
   e. The family eats in the living room.
   f. They watch television.
   g. Yes, she does!

Your turn

3. Revise questions forms that have been introduced:
   Questions that begin with question words: How many? What? Where?
   Questions in which the word order is inverted: Is this your house?
   Questions that make use of the auxiliary to do: What do they do…? Does she have a…?

   Read the labels on the pictures and make sure the students understand what each words means. Then let them work in pairs and ask and answer questions about the pictures.

4. Students use the words to write sentences.
   Remind them to use the grammar checks if they are not sure of a construction.

   Answers
   a. How many rooms are there?
   b. Are these the bedrooms?
   c. Is there a bathroom in the flat?
   d. Are there animals in the compound?
   e. What do they do in the kitchen?
   f. What does she do in the living room?

Extra activities

- Dictate a few questions with the words do/does in them.
- Write a string of words on the board without spaces and invite students to come up and find words, for example:
  `bathroombedtoiletbasinfridgekitcheneat television`
- Students can write answers to activity 2.
- Students could play a question game again. They work in groups and take turns. The first student thinks of a room in a house. The other students have to ask questions to try and guess in which room the student imagines he or she is. They have only two guesses. The student may only answer ‘Yes’ or ‘No’. The game could go like this.
  Student 1: Where am I?
  Student 2: In the bedroom?
  Student 1: No.
  Student 3: Are you in the bathroom?
  Student 1: Yes!
  The student who guesses correctly gets the next turn.
- Students can complete the activities on pages 20 and 21 of their Workbooks.
1. a) We sleep in the bedroom.
   b) We cook in the kitchen.
   c) We have a shower in the bathroom.
   d) We watch TV and work in the living room.

2. The drawing should show the following:
   - Living room: a TV set, a sofa, a small table, three chairs.
   - Bedroom 2: two small beds; bedroom 1: one big bed.
   - Kitchen: a fridge, a cupboard, a stove, a sink, a table, four chairs.
   - Bathroom: a shower, toilet, basin, small cupboard.

3. a) How many huts are there in the compound?

Listen & read

1. Teach the students how to tell the time. Note that the Student’s Book introduces only one way of telling the time. You may also introduce terms which are more closely related to digital times, for example: ten thirty, ten fifteen, ten forty-five (instead of quarter to eleven/quarter past ten/half past ten).

   Then read the text aloud or play back the podcast. Ask a few simple questions about the text and then play back the podcast or read the text again. Let the pupils read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Speak

2. Teach the imperative form of the verb to be. Refer to the Grammar check. Teach the use of the prepositions at and for.

   Play back the podcast or read the text again. The students can read and answer the questions orally.

   Answers
   - a) Rafiatou is sleeping.
   - b) School starts at eight o’clock.
   - c) She eats bread and fruit.
   - d) She drinks milk.
   - e) Lunch is at one o’clock.

Your turn

3. This activity gives the students more practice with telling the time.

Listen & repeat

4. Focus on sounds made by the vowel a: /a:/ and /æ/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud for the students to hear the difference. You can make up short tongue twisters or sentences for the learners to repeat, using words with these sounds.

Learning situation 2 – Sequence 2
It doesn’t matter if the sentences are nonsense or if the students don’t understand every word. For example: The fat black family cat sat on that mat. We are in a yard.

Your turn

Teach the prepositions and phrases about the times of the day as shown in the Grammar check. Then let the students practice using these phrases in questions and answers.

Write

Students write answers to the questions they asked in the previous activity.

Students rewrite the sentences using spaces between the words and adding apostrophes in the contracted words.

Answers

a) What’s the time?
b) It’s six o’clock in the morning.
c) What time is lunch?
d) What’s for breakfast?

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Draw some clocks on the board or use a cardboard clock to show different times. Let the students say the times aloud. Then dictate a few times and let them copy down the times they have heard.
• Students can complete the activities on pages 22 and 23 of their Workbooks. Do activity 3 with the students or let them listen to the recording.

PROJECT CORNER
SB p. 39

The work will have prepared the students for Part A of this project, and the work will have prepared them for Part B.

PART A

The main purpose of this activity is for the students to name family members and identify the correct names to express family relationships. They need to use possessive adjectives as well as structures like this is, that is, these are and those are.

The students compile their own family trees on a small poster. Explain the concept of a ‘family tree’ if the students are not familiar with this. They should then either collect small photographs of their family members or draw pictures of them. The ‘tree’ can look like a real tree, but it can also be a simple diagram. The grandparents should be at the top of the diagram and the youngest members at the bottom.

The students then present their family trees to the rest of the class. They describe the family relationships with sentences such as: This is my mother and that is her sister. She is my aunt. Encourage them to say as much as they can about each family member.
PART B

The main purpose of this activity is for students to talk about their homes and the rooms and furniture inside the homes. It also gives them an opportunity to talk about what they do in their homes. They need to use the nouns and adjectives they have learned as well as verbs in the present simple tense.

The students draw a picture of their dream home. Talk about what a 'dream' home is first and read the poem aloud. The students can label their pictures, write sentences about their homes or if they feel creative, they can write a simple poem about their home as well. They should be able to write labels to name the different parts of the home. They should be able to write a sentence like: There are five rooms in my dream home. We have a big kitchen. My dream home is a compound. There is an example of a simple poem in the Student’s Book, which the students can use as a model; they can change a few words in the given poem. But allow the students to write different poems if they are able to do this.

Preparation

You will need:
- Student’s Book pages 40-47.
- PC/laptop with Internet access, if available.
- Pictures of clothing items from magazines and newspapers.
Warm up

In this unit the students will learn to identify and describe clothes. You could start by teaching the names of colours, if the students don’t already know them. You could also teach a colour poem with rhyming words.

For example:

Blue, blue – pick up your shoe / Brown, brown – turn around.
Green, green – you’re nice and clean / White, white – you’re always right!
Pink, pink – give a wink / Grey, grey – hip hip hooray!

The meaning is not important in this poem. You can make up more verses with the students.

Speak

1. Introduce the vocabulary in MY WORD BANK. This is a good time to teach consonant clusters with s (/st/, /str/, /sk/, /sm/) and the sound /t∫/. These are found in many of the new vocabulary words in this unit. Introduce the sounds in this lesson and then make sure that the students can distinguish the sounds later on. (See the extra activities for this lesson.)

2. Introduce the verb to wear and let the students describe the pictures on page 40. They should point to people in the pictures and say what they are wearing.

Remind the students that in English we put adjectives before the nouns. For example, we say:

- a green skirt, not a skirt green.

2. The students can then work in pairs. They read each sentence aloud and then identify the people in the pictures according to the description of what the person is wearing. They can make up more sentences as well and let their partners identify the people they are describing.

Listen & repeat

3. Here the focus is on the short vowel sound /e/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud and then let the students practise saying the words. Make sure they stress the words correctly as well. For example: headscarf, elegant, bedroom, yellow.

Listen

4. Let the students look at the pictures in their textbook and tell you what they see. Introduce the word photograph. Read and explain the words in MY WORD BANK. Then play back the podcast or read the text aloud. Ask a few questions to check comprehension. For example: Who is in the photograph? Whose family is this? Does Ida have a sister? Is her father in the photograph?

Then teach the use of and as a joining word. Refer to the Grammar check and provide a few more examples yourself.

Your turn

5. The students ask each other other questions about the photographs, using the structures in the examples.

Write

6. The students complete the sentences to describe what the people in each picture are wearing. You may want to do this activity with the whole class orally first.

Answers

a. She is wearing a yellow skirt, a blue blouse and blue shoes.
b. She is wearing a purple suit. She is smart.
c. They are wearing orange T-shirts, brown shorts and brown shoes.
d. She is wearing a pink T-shirt and a pink skirt.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Carry out a dictation activity.

  1. Write the following words on the board: smart, smile, scarf, skirt, shorts, shirt, shoes, small, still, stove, shop, show, spell. Then remove the first two letters at the beginning of each word.
  2. Ask the students to copy the words into their exercise books. Then read the whole words aloud and let the students add sh, str, sc, sk, st, sp, or sm to the beginning of each word. (Note that some of these words are from previous units.)

• The students can write sentences describing their clothes. For example: I have red shoes and a red skirt. Or they can bring a photograph of themselves to class (or draw a picture) and describe what they are wearing in the photograph/picture.
• Students can read the dialogue page 104 (activity 4 page 41) in pairs.
• Students can complete the activities on pages 25 and 26 of their Workbooks.

Listen & read

1 Introduce the new words in MY WORD BANK. Then play back the podcast or read the dialogue. Ask a few simple questions about the text and then play back the podcast or read the text again. Let the students read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Point out the differences between the words to, two and too. The words sound exactly the same but they have different meanings. Refer to the Grammar check. Let the students find examples in the dialogue. You should also explain how we use the word jeans in English. It is always a plural noun. So we say: I am wearing jeans / a pair of jeans, or These jeans are beautiful. We don’t say: I am wearing a jean, or This jean is expensive.

Speak

2 Play back the podcast or read the text again. The students can read and answer the questions orally.

Answers
   a) They’re wearing raffia skirts.
   b) She’s wearing a wrapper, a cowry necklace and bracelets.
   c) Yes, she often wears bracelets.
   d) No, she never does. OR No, she doesn’t.
   e) Yes, they do.

Listen & repeat

3 Focus on the short vowel sounds /ɒ/ and /ɔː/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud and then let the students practise saying the words.

Speak

4 The aim of this game is to practise vocabulary and to say lists of words. The students can also have fun trying to remember the complete list as it gets longer and longer.
The students can play this game in groups. The first student starts off with a simple sentence and then each student, in turn, adds a word to the sentence. Each student repeats what the previous student has said before adding a new word. Play the game with the whole class first if they are not familiar with this game.

Your turn

Revise the adverbs of frequency often, never and always and show the students how they fit into sentences. Refer to the Grammar check. We usually use these adverbs with the present simple or the present perfect tense (which the students will learn later). The adverbs are placed before the verbs in statements and in questions. For example: I often wear jeans. Do you often wear jeans? Note, however, that with the verb to be the adverbs are placed after the verb. For example: I am often late. She is never at school.

The students make their own sentences, using the structures in the examples.

Write

The students make sentences with the given words. Remind them to look out for punctuation clues. The clues will show them which word(s) start and end each sentence.

Answers
a He is wearing a black suit.
b My mother always wears a headscarf.
c Is the baby wearing shorts, too?
d Do you often wear jeans?
e Is she wearing a white blouse and a pink skirt?
f Comlan’s sister always wears short skirts.

The students write phrases to describe each picture. Here it is important to note the order of the words which describe the number and the colour of each item. We put the number first and then the colour. For example, we say: two blue shirts, not blue two shirts or two shirts blue.

Answers
a two orange dresses
b two black shoes
c blue jeans
d a green wrapper
e a white suit

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

Dictate a few sentences to the students. Include words like to, two and too as well as colour words and the names of clothes.
The students can read the dialogue page 42 in pairs.
The students can choose any other pictures in their books and describe what the people in the pictures are wearing. Alternatively they can cut out pictures from magazines, make simple posters and then describe the clothes shown on the posters.
The students can complete the activities on pages 27 and 28 of their Workbooks. Do activity 2 with the students.

Listen & read

1. Play back the podcast or read the poems aloud. Introduce the new words in MY WORD BANK. Ask a few simple questions and then play back the podcast or read the poems again. The poems are quite easy: the aim is to allow the students to start reading for enjoyment in English.

Your turn

2. Let the students read the poems aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences correct.

3. Let the students try and make their own rap poems, based on the poems they have read. They can use the same structures and change a few words here and there. This will help to prepare them for the project at the end of the next sequence. If the students are confident users of English, they could also change the structures, provided that they use the other structures correctly.

Speak

4. Introduce the names of parts of the body, as shown in MY WORD BANK on page 45. Teach the singular and plural forms. Make sure that the students know the difference in meaning between up and down.

Then let them play the game ‘Simon Says’ using the words for different parts of the body. The students will now be familiar with the game.

Your turn

5. Teach the object pronouns him and her and explain how they refer to gender. The students also need to remember that these pronouns are placed after the verb. The students work in groups and talk about their friends, using the example sentences as models.

Write

6. Teach the other object pronouns. Refer to the Grammar check. Remind the students that these are tricky and easily confused. The students should refer to the Grammar check or the grammar section at the backs of their books when they are not sure which pronouns to use. The students may need constant practice to get these pronouns correct. Note the position of the pronoun in sentence e. It goes in between the two parts of the phrasal verb wake up.

Answers

a. This is my mother. I love her.

b. Is that your father? Do you love him?

c. These are my feet. Touch them!

d. This is a pretty dress. Please wear it.

e. Where is your brother? Please wake him up.

f. Look at her. She is very smart!

g. I like you. Do you like me?

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Draw an outline of a body on the board and ask the students to come up and label the parts of the body.

• Write a few sentences on the board and let the students fill in the correct pronouns. You can do this orally at first. After that the students can write the sentences as well. For example: This is my sister, … is 10 years old. I love …

This isn’t … shirt? Is it … shirt?

• The students can complete the activities on pages 29 and 30 of their Workbooks.

Answers to Workbook activities

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- The students can complete the activities on the revision page (page 31) of their Workbooks.

---

Fun

The students can complete the activities on this page when they have finished their other work.

Answers

1. The students follow the instructions to draw the pictures. Tell them that this is not a test of their drawing skills, but to see if they can follow instructions! They can check each other’s drawings to see how accurate they are.

2. Tell the students how this game works if they have not played it before. They can work in pairs or in groups.

3. These are all photographs of parts of the body. The photographs show only a small part of each body part, so the students have to guess what each one is. Students should be able to see: two eyes, a nose, a chin/neck, a leg, fingers, knees, arm/wrist, mouth/lips.

4. The students write a simple poem, using the letters of a word to start each new line in the poem. Brainstorm some ideas with the students first. Choose some nouns (names of parts of the body or clothes) that have five or six letters. Ask the students to think of adjectives, including colour words, that begin with the letters you have chosen. Write the adjectives on the board or on a sheet of paper.
Learning situation 3: My social environment

Sequence 1

People and places

Warm up

Introduce the word map and the names of common public buildings in the area where you are. You could do this by showing the students a real street map (of any urban area, old or new) or you could draw a simple map on the board. Show the students pictures of buildings if you have them. Newspapers may be a good source of pictures.

Read

1. Teach the prepositions given in MY WORD BANK. You can do this by describing where the students are sitting in the class. For example: Ali is sitting in front of Andre.

Then discuss the map in the Student’s Book. Introduce the key to the map. It has important vocabulary words. Make sure the students understand how the key works and what each building is.

NOTE:
Because of the perspective of the map, it is probably a good idea to tell the students to imagine that they are standing in the streets when they look for the buildings. This may make the meanings of prepositions clearer.

Your turn

2. The students work in pairs to ask each other questions about places on the map using the model sentences.

Listen & repeat

3. Play back the podcast of the listening text or read the words aloud to the students. When reading, be careful to stress the syllables in the words correctly. Let the students practise saying the words aloud.

Listen

4. Let the students look at the picture in their textbooks and tell you what they see.
Introduce the new words in MY WORD BANK. Then play back the podcast or read the text aloud. Ask a few questions to check comprehension, for example: Which buildings can you see? Who lives in this neighbourhood?

Teach these phrases: on the left, on the right, up the street, down the street, on the second floor.

Introduce the expressions a lot of and lots of. Refer to the Grammar check (practice is provided in the Workbook).

Play back the podcast or read the text aloud again, and ask more specific questions. For example: Where is the primary school? Where does Ali’s cousin live?

Your turn

The students work in pairs to ask each other questions about their own neighbourhoods, using the model sentences.

Write

The students complete the sentences by copying them into their exercise books.

Answers

a The hotel is between the two shops.
b The bus station is in front of the market.
c The bank is next to the school.
d The sports centre is behind the mosque.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Provide additional oral practice to help the students remember the prepositions and phrases introduced. You could, for example, give a series of oral instructions to a group of students and then let them respond to the instructions. For example: Peter, sit down here. John, sit behind Peter. Anne, sit across from Peter. Mary, sit in front of Anne.
- Mix up some of the vocabulary words relating to buildings and let the students try and work out what they are and how to spell the words correctly. For example: ketmarsuper (supermarket), urchch (church), dengar (garden), bourneighdooh (neighbourhood) or ghrit (right).
- The students can write a few sentences about their own neighbourhoods, based on the oral sentences they made in activity 5.
- The students can read the dialogue page 104 (activity 4 page 49).
- The students can complete the activities on pages 32 and 33 of their Workbooks.
Listen & read

1. You will introduce the simple past form of the verb to be. You could do this before or after you play back the podcast or read the text. Refer to the Grammar check on page 51. Then play back the podcast or read the text aloud. The students should follow in their books. Discuss the new words in MY WORD BANK and then play back the podcast or read the text again. Then ask a few questions about the picture, for example: Was the street narrow? Were the buildings high? What was the name of the street? Were there lions on the street?

Let the students read the text silently by themselves. Then invite some students to read one or two sentences aloud. Help them to give the correct intonation.

Teach the use of the word no in different sentences. Refer to the Grammar check.

Speak

2. The students say if each sentence is true or false. They can do this in groups. They should correct the false sentences and then report back to the rest of the class.

Answers
- a. True.
- b. False. There were no high buildings in the neighbourhood.
- c. True.
- d. False. My grandfather’s address was 21 Lion Street.
- e. True.
- f. False. Grandfather’s house was between the school and the mosque.

Listen & repeat

3. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Point out the silent letters and provide further examples of words with silent letters if you want to. For example: right, fight, bright, sign, wrong, yoghurt, knee, know, knife, island. Check that students pronounce the /æt/ sound correctly as well.

Your turn

4. Review the simple past tense of to be before the students work in pairs to make sentences about the pictures. Encourage them to use adjectives in their descriptions as well. Check that the students pronounce were correctly. Refer to the Pronunciation check.

5. Teach the format used for addresses in English. We put the number of the house or flat before the name of the street or block of flats. Revise numbers if necessary. After that, let the students write down their own addresses and then tell each other where they live.

6. Teach the use of the modal/auxiliary verb can, to express ability. Refer to the Grammar check. Note that it is important to teach the short answer form as well, as it is commonly used.

The students can then work in pairs to practise this structure, following the examples given. Further practice is provided in the next lesson.

Write

7. The students complete the sentences with the correct form of the verb to be in the simple past tense.

Listen & read

1 Play back the podcast or read the poem aloud. The students should follow in their Student’s Book. Discuss the new words in MY WORD BANK and then play back the podcast or read the poem again.

Ask a few questions about the poem. For example: Where was the home? Can you describe the home? Was it a good home? What was in the garden? Was the home big or small?

Speak

2 The students draw pictures of a home. They can choose their own homes or any other homes. The purpose of the drawing is not to test artistic ability but to provide practice in giving simple descriptions. The students should use adjectives, including colour words, in their oral descriptions.

3 Teach the simple past tense forms of regular verbs. Refer to the Grammar check. You could teach the following verbs: to listen, to show, to look, to work, to visit, to watch, to start, to like, to smile. These verbs have already been introduced in the course and they all have regular simple past tense forms. It is important that students learn to say and hear the endings of these verbs. Let them listen to the difference between the present and past forms: look/looked, listen/listened, but don’t do exercises on distinguishing the end sounds /t/ and /d/, yet.

You should not teach any verbs with irregular simple past forms yet. They will be introduced gradually in later lessons.

Answers
   a The shop opened at eight o’clock in the morning.
   b We loved our garden and our house.
   c There were many trees in the garden.
   d She planted trees in the garden.
   e My cousin lived here.
Listen & read

4 Play back the podcast or read the two dialogues aloud. The dialogues introduce ways of requesting and giving help. Pay special attention to the intonation in the questions and answers. Then check that the students understand the new words given in MY WORD BANK on this page.

The students can then role-play the dialogues in pairs. They can extend and change the dialogue as well, but they should keep to the same structures and format.

Check that the students pronounce the vowel sounds /iː/ and /eə/ correctly. Refer to the Pronunciation check.

Your turn

5 The students work in pairs to ask and answer the questions about the map on page 48. They follow the examples in their books.

Write

6 The students copy and complete the sentences, adding verbs in the simple past tense. You may want to do this with them orally first.

Answers
Some people lived in the house at 26 Joy Avenue for many years. The house was small. The roof was purple and the walls were pink. There was a garden. The people planted trees in the garden. They opened the doors for their friends. They loved their home.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Dictate a few sentences with familiar verbs in the simple past tense. For example: We lived in this street. She closed the door. There were no trees in the garden.

• Write some present and past forms of familiar verbs on the board, in pairs. For example: look – looked, open – opened. Then read one word in each pair and ask the students to show you which word they heard. The students can also copy the words into their exercise books and circle the words that they hear.

• The students can read aloud the poem on page 52.

• The students can complete the activities on pages 36 and 37 of their Workbooks.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• The students can complete the activities on the revision page (page 38) of their Workbooks.

PROJECT CORNER

SB p. 55

The students have been introduced to simple poems in English. In this project they have the opportunity to create their own poems and then to rap (or sing) the poems to the rest of the class.

You can decide whether the students should work on this project in small groups, in pairs or individually. Only students who are confident users of English should be asked to work individually. Less confident students will still need the support of other students to complete the project.

Let the students begin by rapping or singing the poems given on page 44 of the Student’s Book. Then let them use one of the poems as a starting point to compose their own poems. Once they are happy with the words of the poems they can practise them and rap them for the rest of the class (or school). Encourage them to perform with gestures and interesting body language and ask them to assess their own performances honestly afterwards. Other students can also be asked to assess the performances. Make sure that these peer assessments are honest. The students should not criticise because they don’t like the student who has performed. Nor should they give praise because the student is a friend.

PREPARATION
You will need:
– Student’s Book pages 56-63.
– PC/laptop with Internet access, if available.
– Some real fruits and vegetables.
– Different containers and packages, such as bottles, packets and cardboard boxes.

Warm up
You could perhaps ask each student to bring a fruit or vegetable to class. They should try and find out what the English name of their fruit or vegetable is. Alternatively bring some real fruits and vegetables to class yourself and ask the students which ones they like, and don’t like. Start introducing the new vocabulary.

Speak
1. Talk about the picture in the Student’s Book and introduce the rest of the new vocabulary. Say each word carefully so that the students can hear the difference in pronunciation and stress in words that look similar in English and French. For example: oranges, bananas, carrots, mangoes.

Your turn
2. The students work in pairs and talk about the fruits and vegetables they like and dislike. You could do a quick survey at the end of this activity to establish which fruits and vegetables everyone in the class likes or dislikes.

You could teach nouns that take plural forms with -es (potatoes, tomatoes, mangoes) at this stage. Refer to the Grammar check on page 57.

Listen & repeat
3. Here the focus is on the short vowel sounds /æ/ and /aː/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Then let the students practise saying the words.

Listen
4. Let the students look at the pictures in their textbooks. Read the text in the speech bubbles. Introduce the words supper and guess. Then play back the podcast or read the text aloud.
Ask a few questions to see if the students have understood the gist (general idea) of the text, for example: What is mother doing? What fruit does she use? Read and discuss the new words in MY WORD BANK on page 57. Then play back the podcast or read the text again and ask some more questions. Teach the contracted form of Let us… (Let’s…). Refer to the Grammar check.

The students can then read the dialogue on page 104 of their textbooks. After that, they can close their textbooks and act what they have heard in pairs. It doesn’t matter if they don’t remember the exact words of the dialogue.

Speak

➎ Play ‘Simon Says’ with the whole class. The students should use the given verbs for practice.

Your turn

➏ The students work in pairs and make up their own simple dialogues using the structures in the examples.

Write

➐ The students write the plural forms of the nouns (-s or -es) in their exercise books.

Answers

- bananas, tomatoes, carrots, onions, cabbages, mangoes, potatoes

➑ The students change the verbs in the sentences into the past simple tense.

Answers

- a. She peeled the fruit this morning.
- b. He chopped up the vegetables at four o’clock.
- c. They made a fruit salad for dessert.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Write pairs of words in the singular and the plural on the board. You can use the names of fruits and vegetables. The students can copy the words. Then read one of the words in each pair and let the students circle the word they hear.
- Provide additional practice with forming verbs in the simple past tense. The students could try these sentences: I (to wash) my hands and then I (to make) a salad. Yesterday I (to dance). He (to open) the box. They (to smile) at us.
- The students can play a miming game in groups. One student can perform an action and the other students can guess what the student did. You should make suggestions with verbs in the past tense, such as: You washed your hands. You washed some fruit. You danced.
- The students can complete the activities on pages 39 and 40 of their Workbooks.

Listen & read

1. The students are going to learn to express quantities in English. Show some real packets, bottles and boxes if you have these available. Introduce the new words in MY WORD BANK. Explain the meaning of the words some and any as well. Then play back the podcast or read the dialogue.

Ask a few simple questions about the text and then play back the podcast or read the text again.

Let the students read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Write

2. Working in pairs, the students extract information from the dialogue and compile a shopping list. Encourage them to write the quantities as well as the names of the ingredients for the soup. Compare and check the lists with the whole class.

Answers

Shopping list
- A/One kilogram of tomatoes
- Some onions
- A bunch of carrots
- A bag of potatoes
- Two big eggplants
- A bunch of parsley
- A litre of oil
- A packet of rice

Speak

3. Teach the students how to use the determiners some and any in statements, questions and negative statements. Explain that some and any can be used with countable and uncountable nouns. Refer to the Grammar check.

Then let the students work with the same partner as before and complete the dialogue. They should do this orally, reading each sentence or question aloud and finding suitable words. The dialogue gives them the opportunity to practise giving greetings, asking questions and making requests, and to use the new vocabulary. When they have successfully completed the dialogue, they should act the scene. They can read the dialogue first and then try to memorise it.

Answers (Answers may vary.)

UNCLE ALI: Good morning, Rafiatou and Comlan. How are you?
RAFIATOU AND COMLAN: We are fine, thank you.
UNCLE ALI: What do you need today?
RAFIATOU: We need some vegetables for soup. Do you have any [name of any vegetable]?
UNCLE ALI: Yes, I do.
COMLAN: And do you have any tomatoes?
UNCLE ALI: No. I don’t have any tomatoes. I’m sorry!
RAFIATOU: Do you have any [name of any vegetable]?
UNCLE ALI: Yes, I do.
COMLAN AND AWA: Thank you, Uncle Ali.
UNCLE ALI: Here’s your bag. Goodbye. Please close the door.

Your turn

4. Teach the students the comparative forms of simple adjectives, such as big, small, long, tall and short using real items in the classroom. Explain the difference between long and tall we use long to describe things and tall to describe people. We don’t talk about long people. Refer to the Grammar check and explain that comparative forms of adjectives are used to compare two things. We change the adjective by adding -er and we use the word than. We double the final consonant of some adjectives before we add -er, usually if the vowel sound before the consonant is short. (An example is bigger.)

Then let the students work in pairs to compare the people and things in the pictures in their textbooks, using the examples as models.

Write

5. The students construct a variety of sentences with the given words and write the sentences in their exercise books.

Answers

a. We need a packet of rice.
b. She sells fresh meat.
c. A potato is bigger than a bean.
d. He needs a litre of oil.
e. Do you have any rice?

6. The students select some or any for each sentence.

Answers

a. Do you have any fish?
b. I need some vegetables.
c. Does the shop have any fruits?
d. She cooked some vegetables.
EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Dictate a few sentences with comparative adjectives in them. For example: The girl is taller than the boy. The banana is bigger than the pencil.
- The students can make shopping lists of ingredients for other meals or recipes.
- Play ‘Kim’s Game’ with a selection of empty packets, bottles and boxes. Alternatively, write the names of ten fruits/vegetables on the board. Give the students a minute to study the list, then erase the words and ask the students to write down the words. You could leave the first letter of each word on the board if you think the students need some help.
- The students can complete the activities on pages 41 and 42 of their Workbooks.

1. This dialogue introduces the students to questions that begin with How much and How many, and to sequencing words such as first, then, next and after that.

   Introduce the new words in MY WORD BANK. Then play back the podcast or read the dialogue. Refer to the Grammar check and explain that when we want to say how we feel, we use the verb to be with the words hungry and thirsty.

   Explain that we use How much with uncountable nouns and How many with countable nouns. Refer to the Grammar check. It may be useful to make lists of countable and uncountable words (from the words banks in this unit) so that the students are sure of the difference.

   Let the students listen to the dialogue again and practise reading it in the usual way.

Speak

2. The students work in pairs and put the sentences in the correct order. They should do this orally. Make sure they pronounce the words correctly. Refer to the Pronunciation check.

3. In this activity the students work in small groups. They discuss how to make soup, using the examples given. Each group should agree on how to make a certain type of soup. They should then explain their recipe to the rest of the class. Encourage them to provide different recipes and help them with further vocabulary as necessary.
The students could also make posters with their recipes. They can write the list of ingredients and the method and then present the recipes orally. Each member of the group should have a turn to explain part of the recipe.

Write

4 The students work alone and complete the questions with much or many.

Answers
a How much juice do you want?
b How many tomatoes do you need?
c How much water do I put into the pot?
d How many onions do I cut?

5 The students work alone and write down any simple recipe that they know, making use of the word banks in the unit for vocabulary.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Write part of the dialogue from activity 1 on the board and erase some of the words. The students should close their textbooks and provide the missing words, orally. Then erase more words and dictate the complete sentences to the students. They should listen to and use the remaining words as clues as they write the complete sentences.

• Read the following poem aloud and teach it to the students. It’s a limerick, so the number of syllables in each line is controlled in order to provide a certain rhythm to the poem.

There was a young boy named Talad
Who made a delicious fruit salad
He washed apples and guavas,
Peeled mangoes and bananas
And sliced them all up – what a salad!

• The students can complete the activities on pages 43 and 44 of their Workbooks.

The students can complete the activities on this page when they have finished their other work.

1. The students can work in pairs to make up a simple story from the pictures. Encourage them to use any English that they know to tell this story. The emphasis should be on the students trying to express themselves rather than on grammar. For example, they can use the present tense.

   The story could go something like this:
   a. Mother gives a shopping list to the boy. The list says: a kilo of potatoes, two tomatoes, three fish and a packet of rice.
   b. The boy goes to the market. Where is the shopping list?
   c. The boy is at a stall. First he buys some/a kilogram of tomatoes.
   d. Then he buys some meat.
   e. After that he buys himself an ice cream.
   f. The boy goes home. His mother is angry! Oh, no! There is no fish! And no rice! And no potatoes!

Don’t give the students the answers until they have tried to work out the riddles for themselves!

Answers
a. a banana
b. bissap juice

Talk about the example poems. The poems are written in the shape of the fruits that they describe. The poems consist of words only, not sentences, so the students should be able to make up their own poems. The words need to relate to the subject of the poem in some way and they need to fit into the shape. Encourage the students to write poems like this and display them in the classroom for other students to read.

Remind the students to check their spelling.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES
• The students can complete the activities on the revision page (page 45) of their Workbooks.

Use a map or a globe if you have one. Then mention countries in other continents (such as the United States, the United Kingdom, Ireland, Australia, Canada and Jamaica).

Read & speak
1. Ask the students if they know the sports champions shown in the photographs. Read the texts with the students, introducing the vocabulary in MY WORD BANK as you do this. As you read, ask questions such as, Which sport does he/she play? Where are they from? Who are ‘The Squirrels’? If necessary, remind the students about how to say years (2008, 2002, etc.) in English.

Let the students read the texts silently by themselves and then aloud as well.

If you have any photographs of other sports champions, show them to the class. Let them say who the champions are, why they are champions and which sports they play.

Listen & repeat
2. Let the students listen to the names of the countries on the podcast, or read them aloud. Let the students repeat the names. Many of the names are almost the same as in French. Names that may cause pronunciation difficulties are:

- South Africa (sauθ əfrɪkə): pay attention to the /θ/ sound.
- Tanzania (tænzənˈtʃa), The Gambia (ɡæmbɪə), Jamaica (dʒameɪkə), China (tʃaɪna): pay attention to the end sounds.
- Egypt (ɪdʒɪpt), Uganda (jʊɡændə), Nigeria (naiˈdʒɪarə): pay attention to the ‘g’ sound.

3. The students focus on the short vowel sound /ɒ/ on the podcast. They listen to and repeat the words.
You could introduce the podcast of the listening and reading text by first reading the essential facts given in the FACT FILE. Read the FACT FILE with the students and introduce new vocabulary as necessary. Then let them listen to the podcast of the main text (or read it aloud to them) once or twice before you ask some questions to check comprehension. Teach the phrase to be born and explain that in English we use the simple past tense to say when we were born. For example: I was born in… Teach the simple past tense of the verb win. Refer to the Grammar check page 65.

You may also wish to review adjectives and the word order in phrases such as: bronze medal, a good athlete, a young woman. Write lists of nouns and adjectives on the board and ask the students to make adjectival phrases to describe the sportsmen and women whom they know.

The students work in pairs. They should talk about Amy M’Backé Thiam and Rafael Nadal and ask each other questions about them. Then they can complete the paragraphs about each champion. It is best if they do this orally first and agree on which words they need to use to complete the paragraphs. Then each student can each write out the full paragraphs as well.

Answers

a Amy M’Backé Thiam is Senegalese. She comes from Senegal. She is a champion athlete. She runs the 400 metres. From 2001 to 2007 she won many championships.

b Rafael Nadal is Spanish. He comes from Spain. He is a champion tennis player. He won in Roland Garros in 2006, in 2007 and in 2008. In 2008 he was the world champion.

The students can write about any sports champion whom they know. They can use the paragraphs about Amy M’Backé Thiam and Rafael Nadal as models for their own writing.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Mix up some of the names of countries and let the students work out what the names are. They should also say the names aloud.

• The students can hold a short quiz about sports champions. Each student or each team can make up five questions to ask other students. For example: When was Rafael Nadal the world tennis champion? How many times did Amy M’Backé Thiam win the French Open Championships? Work out the rules and a way of scoring for this quiz with the students before they begin.

• The students can make FACT FILES about other athletes and sports champions.

• The students can read the text about Amy M’Backé Thiam aloud.

• The students can complete the activities on pages 46 and 47 of their Workbooks.

He won gold medals at the Olympic Games in 1996 and 2000. He also won medals at the World Championships. He won the World Championships in Berlin three times, from 2006 to 2008.
This dialogue introduces several new language structures: superlative forms, the past tense of the verb to be, and question forms with the auxiliary did. You could start by introducing the words in MY WORD BANK. Alternatively you could play the podcast or read the text aloud first and then introduce the new vocabulary. Focus on comprehension of the dialogue first, before you teach any of the grammar. Let the students listen to the dialogue a few times and read it silently by themselves.

Read and discuss the questions with the class. Teach the phrase to be good at and ask the students to tell you what they are good at. Note that at is a weak form in this expression. The stress falls on the word good.

Check that the students can hear the difference in the pronunciation of the sounds /æt/ and /æ/.

Answers
a Yes, he did.  b Yes.  c Yes.
 d The Americans.  e Yes.  f The Asians.
g Personal answers.

We use the superlative forms of adjectives to compare three or more things. Teach the students how to make the superlative form by adding -est.

You can also mention that for some adjectives we double the final consonant before we add -est. Usually this happens when the vowel sound before the consonant is short. An example is biggest.

Teach the irregular comparative and superlative forms of good as well. Refer to the Grammar check.

Other adjectives that you could use, as they have already been introduced, are: strong, slow, great, hot, big, small, tall and long. You could also include the superlative forms for hungry and thirsty if you think the students are ready to learn them. The students will need to understand that the spelling rules are more complex. With words that end in -y, we drop the y and replace it with an i before adding -est. For example: hungriest, thirstiest.

After your introduction, let the students make sentences about the pictures.

The students should now be familiar with the oral forms of the simple past tense of to be and questions with did. Teach them how to form these structures now. Include short answers. Refer to the Grammar check. You can use the verbs in MY WORD BANK to teach the question forms. Many of the verbs have already been introduced. The students then work in pairs and practise using these structures, following the examples given.

The students complete the sentences with the correct forms of the verb to be.

Answers
a I was in Cotonou on Wednesday.
 b Where were you born?
 c The Asians were the best gymnasts.
 d Armelle was born in Cotonou. She was born in Fidjrossé.
 e It was an exciting event.
 f The Africans weren't the fastest sprinters.

The students complete the gap fill, which is focused on past tense questions with did.

Answers
a Did you see Rafiatou last week? No, we didn't.
 b Did you watch the Olympic Games? Yes, I did. / Yes, we did.
 c Did our team win a medal? No, they didn't.
 d Did Natalie du Toit swim in the 2008 Olympic Games? Yes, she did.
 e Did the Asian athletes win many medals? Yes, they did.
 f Did you call my name? No, I didn't.

Dictate a few sentences that include the new language structures. For example: She is good at tennis. Did they win a medal? Where were you yesterday? She wasn’t at the Olympic Games.

Give the students additional practice in using short answer forms in the past tense. Use any verbs with which they are familiar. For example, ask a student questions such as: Did you eat chicken yesterday? Was it hot yesterday? The student gives a short answer response and then asks a question of his/her own. The students can work in groups or you can do this activity with the whole class.
• The students can write down some of the sentences and questions they made in activity 4.
• Let the students write past tense questions with the verbs in MY WORD BANK on page 67.
• The students can read the dialogue in activity 1 in pairs.
• The students can complete the activities on pages 48 and 49 of their Workbooks.

Listen & read

1. You will prepare the students for the project at the end page 71. The dialogue introduces the modal/auxiliary verbs must and mustn’t, the imperative Don’t… and the use of can to express possibility. The vocabulary focus shifts to health matters.

   Introduce the words in MY WORD BANK. Then play back the podcast of the dialogue or read it aloud a few times. Ask simple questions to test comprehension.

   Refer to the Grammar check and teach the students how to use must and mustn’t in sentences. Help them to pronounce the negative form correctly: /mʌst/.

Speak

2. The students can work in pairs or small groups. They should read the dialogue again, aloud, and then discuss things they can do to stay healthy. After that they make two written lists, as instructed. They can use vocabulary from the dialogue but encourage them to add their own ideas as well. You can help them with additional vocabulary.

   Afterwards, pairs or groups can present their ideas to the rest of the class, and the written lists can be displayed in class.

Your turn

3. Teach the use of Don’t… with another verb. Refer to the Grammar check. The students then play ‘Simon Says’, practising the use of the new language structures.

4. Teach the use of want + an infinitive. Refer to the Grammar check. The students then work in pairs to match the parts of the sentences. They should do this orally and read the sentences aloud. The activity requires the students to look carefully at the grammar structures before matching the sentences.

   Answers
   They must use their mosquito nets.
   He can buy fruits and vegetables at the market.
She wants to say, ‘No!’
His brother said, ‘Don’t take it!’

• The students can complete the activities on the revision page (page 52) of their Workbooks.
The focus in this project is on healthy eating. The students have been prepared for this project and should know sufficient vocabulary and suitable language structures to complete this project successfully. However, it might be a good idea for the students to discuss their ideas with the Biology or Science teacher as they do their research and preparation for the project.

The project is divided into two parts.

PART A

In Part A, the students, working in groups, make a poster about healthy foods and eating habits. The illustrations in the Student's Book provide some ideas about how this can be done, but of course the students can exercise their own creative ideas as well. The posters should consist of pictures with labels as well as at least one sentence which is used as the main slogan or heading for the poster.

Remind the students that posters need to be large, easy to read from a distance, and clear. They should use all the space on the paper as well. Colour will give impact to the poster.

The students present their posters and describe them to the rest of the class. The class can be asked to assess each poster. Write a checklist of criteria on the board for this purpose and award points for each item. Fill in the total for a score out of 16.

Here is an example of what such an assessment could look like:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Criteria</th>
<th>Points</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Interesting information</td>
<td>4</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Clear and easy to read</td>
<td>3</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Attractive, colourful (beautiful)</td>
<td>2</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Good presentation</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Total</th>
<th>4 6 2 0</th>
</tr>
</thead>
</table>

Total for project: 12/16

The posters should then be displayed in the class or somewhere in the school.

PART B

The second part of the project requires the students to talk about staying healthy in general. They can work in groups again and make lists which give advice on staying healthy.

They should again present their ideas to the rest of the class. This time, let each group assess their own performance, using the assessment checklist.

PREPARATION
You will need:
- Student’s Book pages 72-79.
- Workbook pages 53-59.
- PC/laptop with Internet access, if available.

Warm up
Introduce the students to the words crop(s) and livestock. Then make a list in English of the crops that are grown, and the animals that are raised, in the area in which the students live. In this way you will probably find that you have already introduced quite a lot of the vocabulary for this sequence.

Speak
1. Talk about the map (This is a map of Benin. It shows the main crops and livestock.) The students should be familiar with maps like this from their geography lessons. Introduce any further vocabulary as needed from MY WORD BANK or from the map key.

   Answers
   a. We grow millet, cassava, sorghum, maize, sugar cane, rice, peanuts, cotton and vegetables in Benin.
   b. We raise cattle, goats and sheep.
   c. People grow rice in …
   d. People grow peanuts in …

Listen & repeat
3. Here the focus is on the vowel sounds /iː/ and /ɪ/.
   Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Then let the students practise saying the words.

Listen
4. Play back the podcast or read the text aloud (see page 104 for the script). Ask a few questions to see if the students have understood the gist (general idea) of the text. For example: Where is Safiatou from? Do they raise animals there? Is there any fish there? Read and discuss the new words in MY WORD BANK on page 73.

Teach the structure It’s + an adjective to describe the weather. For example: It’s hot. It’s cold. It’s rainy.
Teach the students how to use the prepositions to describe place. For example: in the (north/south/ east/west) of Senegal. Refer to the Grammar check. Point out that the nouns cattle and livestock are plural nouns, so we do not add -s to them. These nouns do not have singular forms. The students may know some other nouns of this type. For example: clothes, people and trousers.

Finally, play back the podcast or read the text again and ask some more questions.

Your turn

The students work in pairs to talk about the weather in places that they know, using the example sentences in their textbooks as models.

Working with the same partner, the students talk about crops and livestock in places that they know, again using the example sentences in their textbooks as models.

Write

This is an unstructured writing activity. Let the students write any sentences they can to describe the photographs in their textbooks. You could discuss the photographs with the class first to give them a few ideas. Elicit some key words and phrases and write them on the board. For example: in the east, in the west, to get fish, from the sea, raise goats, village, other livestock, grow crops.

Answers
(Answer will vary. The following are examples.)
The people catch/get fish from the sea.
The people raise livestock. / There are some goats in this village.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Mix up some words relating to crops and livestock and let the students work out what the words are. They should also say the words aloud. Make sure that they pronounce words like millet (the end sound is like it) and cotton (the end sound is like tin) correctly.
• The students can read the dialogue on page 104 (activity 4 page 73) of their books.
• The students can complete the activities on pages 53 and 54 of their Workbooks.
Listen & read

1. The students will practise the simple past tense and ask questions in the simple past tense using different verbs from the dialogue. Play back the podcast or read the dialogue aloud. Then ask a few simple questions. Introduce the new words in MY WORD BANK and then play back the podcast or read the text again.

Let the students read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Teach the simple past forms of the verbs given in the Grammar check. Note that in American English travelled is spelled traveled. Then introduce the structure can + a verb stem + an infinitive. Refer to the Grammar check on page 75.

Speak

2. The students answer the questions about the dialogue orally.

Answers
a. Yes, she did.
b. No, she didn’t. She travelled by bush taxi.
c. No, she didn’t.
d. Safiatou is afraid of the sea.
e. She is afraid because rivers are dangerous.

3. The students use the picture to ask and answer questions relating to ways of travelling from one place to another using different means of transport. They need to memorise which preposition to use with each verb.

Your turn

4. The students work in pairs to make up questions that are appropriate for the given answers. For each question they will need to use a question word + did, as shown in the example. Use the example sentence to elicit other question words that the students can use to make questions, for example: Where (Where did Safiatou go last month?) Who (Who went to the village last month?) What (What did Safiatou do last month?)

Answers
a. When did he get a taxi?
b. When did they go to Dakar?
c. What did she get from the river?
d. How did you get around in the village?

Write

5. The students choose the correct words in each sentence. Most of the choices enable the students to practise using prepositions correctly.

Answers
a. Rafiatou likes to swim in the sea.
b. Safiatou went to the village by taxi.
c. I went to the shop on foot.
d. Can we learn to swim?
e. Parakou is in the north of Benin.
f. Can you see Parakou on the map?

6. The students choose the correct verb form in each sentence.

b. Did you swim in the river? Yes, I did.
c. Did they get some water from the river?
d. Does she use a bicycle to go to the village?
e. Did they raise any livestock last year?

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Dictate a few sentences (including questions) in the simple past tense, using the new verbs in this unit (to swim, to travel, to go out, to get). For example: Did they travel by train? No, they didn’t. They travelled by car.
- Write the following passage and list of words on the board and ask the students to fill the gaps, using the words supplied. This could be done orally, or as a type of dictation.

There is a modern railway that connects Burkina Faso to Côte d’Ivoire, so many people travel ... from one country to the other. From Lagos, in Nigeria, to Yamoussoukro, in Côte d’Ivoire, there is no railway. People travel ... from Nigeria to Côte d’Ivoire, through Togo and Ghana. 6 Personal answers.

Listen & read

1 These texts introduce new vocabulary relating to animals, as well as sentences with clauses that are joined by the conjunctions and, but and linked by because.

Ask the students what they think the texts are about and introduce the words wild and domestic animal(s). Introduce the new animal names. Then play back the podcast or read the texts aloud. Ask a few simple questions about each text.

Introduce the rest of the vocabulary in MY WORD BANK and then play back the podcast or read the text again. Draw attention to the word stress in words that look similar in English and French. For example: domestic, animals, antelope, elephant, giraffe.

Your turn

2 Teach the students how to join sentences with the coordinating conjunctions and and but and how to link sentences with the subordinating conjunction because. Refer to the Grammar check on page 77 of the Student’s Book.

Here are a few more notes about using these conjunctions.

and: We do not have to repeat the subject when we use and to join two or more clauses. This is because the clauses have the same subject.

because: This goes at the beginning of the clause which gives a reason. It can go between two clauses or at the beginning of the sentence. The students must make sure they understand the clauses in a sentence before they attempt to link them.

but: The students should be careful not to confuse the meanings of but and because.

The students work in pairs to make sentences with the words in the table. They can do this orally and compare the sentences they have made with those of other students. Let them try and reach consensus about the correct answers.

Answers
a Donkeys can pull ploughs and carry crops to the village.
b Camels are useful because they can carry things.
c There are many wild animals in Benin but we still need to take care of them.
Speak

The students play a vocabulary game in groups or as a class. Someone calls out a letter of the alphabet and the students have to think of the name of an animal that begins with this letter.

Work out a system of scoring with the students before they begin this game. You could allow the students to use dictionaries, if available. They could also use the word list at the back of the Student’s Book.

The students do not have to be restricted to the vocabulary that they have learned.
Finally, you may want to teach or revise the difference between the sounds /dʒ/ and /g/ before the students begin this game.

The students work in pairs to ask and answer questions. The aim is to let them practise using the conjunctions they have learned.

Write

The students choose the correct words to complete the sentences. They write down their answers.

Answers

a) Cows are useful because they give us milk and meat.

b) She didn’t swim in the river because she was afraid.

c) There is a lot of water because it is the rainy season.

d) The farmer raises chickens and she sells eggs at the market.

e) There are giraffes in the reserve but there are no buffaloes.

f) We saw buffaloes, elephants and birds in the reserve.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Choose a few sentences from the texts on page 76. Write the sentences on the board and erase every fourth word in each sentence. Then dictate the full sentences to the students. They refer to the board and listen for the missing words in order to write complete sentences.

• The students can read the texts on page 76 again.

• The students can complete the activities on pages 57 and 58 of their Workbooks.

   b) There are elephants in the reserve, but there are no buffaloes.
   c) It is the rainy season, but it is hot.
   d) We can wear lifejackets because the water is dangerous/we go in a canoe.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- The students can complete the activities on the revision page (page 59) of their Workbooks.
Warm up

Use some events in your community that have taken place recently (or some events that will take place in the near future) to introduce the students to the topic of events and celebrations. Name the celebrations, talk about where and when they took place (or will take place) and what happened (or what will happen) during the event or celebration. Introduce the verb to celebrate and the noun celebration. If you have any real posters from local events, try to bring one to class as an aid to the discussion.

Speak

1. Read the posters in the Student’s Book with the students. This is an opportunity to practise wh- questions and to recognise a future form. Ask the students a few questions about the first poster, starting with the present tense only. For example: What is the celebration? Where is it? When is it? Then gradually introduce the future tense, using some question words. At this stage you don’t have to teach the students how to use the future tense. Just use it so that the students become familiar with it. For example, you can ask the students: What will people do? What will they celebrate? Who will present the play? Ask questions about both of the posters.

Write

2. The students copy the table from the Student’s Book into their exercise books and complete it.

③ Listen & repeat

Play back the podcast or read the words aloud to the students. The students then repeat the words several times, paying attention to the stressed syllables in the words. Point out that the words summer and celebrate have the same /s/ sound as well. The c in activity is pronounced /k/.

Listen & read

④ Listen & read

Play back the podcast of the dialogue, or read it aloud to the students. The focus is on the future tense, with contracted forms.

Introduce and discuss the words in MY WORD BANK. Teach the use of will to talk about the future, along with the contracted form of will. Explain how to form questions with will. Refer to the Grammar check. Note that shall and its usage has not been introduced because will is increasingly replacing shall in modern English.

After that, let the students listen to the dialogue again and note how the contraction ‘ll is not stressed in sentences.

Ask questions about the dialogue to check understanding and let the students practise reading the dialogue aloud in pairs.

Your turn

⑤ Your turn

The students work in pairs to make sentences using the future tense of the given verbs. After they have made sentences with the full form of will, they can try saying the sentences again, using the informal, contracted form.

Write

⑥ Write

The students use verbs from the word banks in this lesson to complete the sentences. They need to form the future tense correctly, using the verb stem (not the infinitive).

Answers

a) On 5 June we will celebrate World Environment Day.

b) Doudou will find out about life in Ali’s village.

c) Will you bring your friends to the celebration?

d) Ali will join the Environment Club during the holidays.

e) The Holiday Theatre Club presents Angélique Kidjo. She will sing her greatest songs.

f) Will you go to any celebrations during the summer holiday?

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Write a few pairs of sentences on the board and test to see whether the students can hear the difference between them. For example: I go to the supermarket on Fridays. / I’ll go to the supermarket on Friday.

We sing and dance. / We’ll sing and dance. You’ll be very busy. / You’re very busy.

Read one of the sentences in each pair aloud and ask the students to identify which sentence you have read.

• The students can write down some of the sentences they made in activity 5. They could also sequence some sentences to make a paragraph about what they will do in the summer holiday.

• Play a game to help the students become familiar with the spelling of new words. Take the word queen, for example. Write this on the board: _ u _ n. Tell the students that they have three chances to guess the missing letters. Give the students as many chances as there are missing letters. If they get the letters correct, they score a point. If they don’t, the teacher (or group leader) scores a point. Alternatively, you can work out your own scoring system.

• The students can work in pairs to talk about the posters on page 80 of their textbooks. They can use contracted future tense forms in their questions and answers.

• The students can complete the activities on pages 60 and 61 of their Workbooks.

1

The focus is on the future tense once again, this time with question words and negative forms.

Play back the podcast or read the dialogue aloud to the students. Introduce and discuss the words in MY WORD BANK. Teach the use of question words with will. Refer to the Grammar check on page 83 of the Student’s Book.

Then let the students listen to the dialogue again. Ask them to pay special attention to the intonation in the questions this time. They should note the emphasis on the question words at the beginning of each question and the way in which the voice rises at the end of a question.

Ask questions about the dialogue to check understanding and let the students practise reading the dialogues aloud in pairs.

2

The students read and identify the true and false statements. They should correct the false statements and point out the sentence in the dialogue that shows that the statement is false.

Answers

a False.
 b True.
 c False.
 d True.
 e False.
 f False.

3

Teach the students how to give short answers to future tense questions with will. Refer to the Grammar check. Then let the students give short answers to the questions in the activity.

Answers

a Yes, he will.
 b No, he won’t.
 c Yes, he will.
 d Yes, he will.
 e Yes, he will.

4

The students can work in pairs to complete the dialogue.

Answers

Answers may vary. The following are examples.

Where will you go in the holidays? I’ll go to my village.

What will you do there? I’ll read and play games.

What else will you do? I’ll go over my work.

Who will teach you? Some university students will teach us.

5 The students make complete sentences in the future tense, using the given words.

Answers
a Where will you go next week?
b He will teach me to play football.
c Doudou will travel to town in October.
d We will celebrate our heroes.
e The event will take place on Sunday.

6 The students choose the correct words to complete the sentences.

Answers
a There will be celebrations at the club on Saturday.
b She will rest in September.
c Will you be busy this afternoon?
d My father won't be here next week.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

Dictate a few sentences with questions words and the future tense. For example: Where will you go on Sunday? Who will go to the party?

Refer to the Pronunciation check. Make up some silly sentences with the students, using words with the /eʊ/ sound. For example: I hope I won't be a hero! Don't go over the rope! Other words that you could use with this sound, which the students should know, are: hello, no, home, open, goat, sofa, yellow, narrow, road, close, potato, tomato, gold.

Give the students additional practice in giving short answers to future tense questions.

The students can complete the activities on pages 62 and 63 of their Workbooks.

Listen & read

1 This dialogue introduces the language we use to give and accept apologies. It also introduces more complex comparative forms and the simple past tense forms of the irregular verbs to have and to come.

Play back the podcast or read the dialogue aloud to the students. Teach the vocabulary used for giving and accepting apologies as well as the expression I beg your pardon?

Teach the past forms of to come and to have. Refer to the Grammar check.

Speak

2 Read and discuss the questions with the students. The students need to pay attention to the verb tenses in the questions and to answer in the appropriate tense. Questions a to e are in the past tense, and questions f and g are in the present tense.

Answers
a Ali went to his village.
b Comlan came with Ali.
c They watched wrestling competitions.
d They made a garden.
e Yes, they did.
f Villages are quieter.
g Villages are more interesting.

Listen & repeat

3 Let the students listen to the sound /kw/ and practise saying the words. You could make up (or ask the students to make up) a silly sentence with words beginning with this sound. For example: The quiet queen asked a quick question in the quiz!

Answers to Workbook activities

   c) to hope: The other words have the same meaning.
Speak

4 Revise the comparative forms of adjectives, reminding the students about the various spelling rules:
  - for adjectives that end in -y: change y to i and add -er;
  - for adjectives with short vowels before a consonant: double the consonant.

Then teach the more complex forms as shown in the Grammar check. When using adjectives with more than two syllables we use the word more + the unchanged adjective.

Finally, let the students make comparative sentences from the lists in the picture. You could copy the table onto the board, as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Town</th>
<th>Village</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>more dangerous</td>
<td>more beautiful</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>more comfortable</td>
<td>more interesting</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>noisier</td>
<td>quieter</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>bigger</td>
<td>smaller</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Answers
Answers may vary. The following are examples.
A town is more dangerous than a village.
A village is smaller than a town.

Your turn

This activity gives practice in asking and answering questions in the past tense. The students work in pairs. They should first give a short answer and then provide a full answer using sentences with more than one clause when possible, as shown in the given examples.

Speak

6 This activity provides practice in giving and accepting apologies. The students can act out the short dialogue once they are familiar with it.

Answers
TEACHER: You are not listening to me!
STUDENT: I'm sorry, Mr (name). I must apologize. I am listening to you now.
TEACHER: Good. I'll excuse you.
STUDENT: Thank you, Mr (name).

Write

7 The students use the given words to construct sentences. The sentences provide practice in using comparative forms and past tense verbs. Remind the students to look for punctuation clues. Some of the longer sentences are tricky and the students may need to play around with the words until they can work out grammatically correct sentences using all of the given words.

If the students have difficulty with exercises like this one, let them copy the words onto small pieces of paper and then move the words around until they form a sentence that sounds correct. They can then compare the sentences with sentences in the dialogue or in the grammar checks to see if they are on the right track.

Answers
a The town is noisier than the village.
b Is it more dangerous in a town than in a village?
c The village will be more interesting than the town.
d In the village you will hear some good stories.
e They had fun during the holidays.
f My friend came with me.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Dictate a few sentences that contain comparative forms of adjectives. For example: Towns are noisier than villages. Wrestling is more interesting than tennis. Our house in the village is more beautiful than our house in town.

• Let the students play a sentence game in groups.

1. Working alone, the students construct a statement or a question using a comparative adjective and a verb in the past tense. They write out the sentence in draft form and check it with you to make sure that it is grammatically correct. Then they copy the sentence onto a strip of paper. After that, they cut or tear up each sentence up into individual words.

2. Talking turns, each student gives his/her set of words to the group. The group has one minute in which to reconstruct the full sentence. You can work out a scoring system with the students before they begin the game.

• The students can read the dialogue in activity 1 in groups of three and then act out the scene. They can try to memorise most of the words. Afterwards they could substitute their own words in some of the sentences.

• The students can complete the activities on pages 64 and 65 of their Workbooks.

   c) Last year my family did not have a flat in Cotonou. We lived in a compound. But this year we have a flat and we live in the city centre.

PROJECT CORNER

For this project the students make posters about their villages or the regions in which they live. Group the students so that they can all make a contribution. The students should have sufficient vocabulary and suitable language structures to complete this project successfully. However, it might be a good idea for the students to discuss their ideas with the geography/history teacher as they do their research and preparation for the project.

The project is divided into two parts.

PART A

The students do their research. Discuss with them how they can go about this. Summarise this by reading the suggestions for Step 1 with them.

Discuss what sort of information they should present in their posters. Draw their attention to the list of pictures with labels as well as a paragraph of written information about each of the topics listed in Step 2. However, the students could choose to tell the old story (item c) instead of writing it.

PART B

The students present their posters to the rest of the class. You could ask the class to assess each poster and presentation. The posters should then be displayed in the class or somewhere in the school.

Let each student assess his/her own performance in the group, using the assessment checklist at the bottom of the page.
Warm up

The students were introduced to the names of some countries and nationalities. In this sequence they will expand their vocabulary and learn to describe countries and nationalities in more detail. But first they will focus on their own country. You could start by referring to a map of Benin. Ask the students to name the different regions and to say which region they come from. Then ask what tourist attractions there are in the regions and what special dances, music and food they have. Introduce the words region, culture, special, tourist, and traditional during this discussion and revise the words north, south, east and west.

Listen & read

1 You could start by introducing the rest of the words in MY WORD BANK. Alternatively you could play back the podcast or read the text aloud first, and then introduce the new vocabulary. Let the students listen to the dialogue a few times and then read it silently by themselves.

After that, let the students work in pairs to ask each other questions about the dialogue. They can practise using question words (when, where, what, why, which, how, who and the auxiliary do/did), and at the same time test each other’s understanding of the text. For example: Where is Comlan from?

Read and discuss the recipe for dakoin.

The students should be familiar with the format and grammatical structures used in recipes. Let them read the text a few times. Ask a few questions to check comprehension. Then ask them to close their books and explain to a partner or to their group, how to make dakoin.

The grammar in this dialogue is mostly revision. The new structures include the use of the linking word so, and the use of in which to create relative clauses. You can teach these items once the students have understood the dialogue and the recipe. Refer to the Grammar checks on page 89 of the Student’s Book.

Speak

2 The students read the statements aloud and correct the false statements.
Answers
a False. The Casamance region is in the west of Senegal.
b True.
c True.
d False. The shrimps and oysters have a special taste because they come from the estuary/river.

Your turn
3 In this activity the students have to connect pronouns (personal, demonstrative and relative pronouns) to their referents in the dialogue they have read. The students may find this quite tricky in the beginning but it is important that they learn to look for these connections because it will help them to understand more complex texts. Use the examples given with the activity to explain to the students what they have to do.

Let the students try the activity in pairs and then report back with their suggestions. You may wish to provide extra support by drawing a table on the board for the pairs to copy and complete:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Pronoun</th>
<th>Refers to</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>The word That's refers to the south eastern region of Benin, Ouémé.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The word He refers to Comlan’s uncle.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The words It's and There refer to the Ouémé region.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>The word It refers to dakoin.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Listen & repeat
4 Play back the podcast of the vowel sounds /ɔ/ and /ɔː/ (or carefully read the sounds and words aloud to the students). They listen to and repeat the words.

Your turn
5 The students work in pairs to talk about where they come from. This is partly revision so encourage the students to ask each other questions about where they come from as well. They should also mention their favourite foods.

To provide extra support you could perhaps brainstorm a list of favourite foods with the whole class before they start this activity.

Write
6 The sentences in this activity can be linked by using so or because. Refer to the Grammar check. The students do need to understand the meaning of each sentence so that they can work out which one is the result (or effect) and which one is the reason (or cause).

Let the students do the sentences orally first, before they attempt to write them. The students can work in pairs. One student can link the sentences in one way and then the partner has to link the sentences in the other way. The students can then write both versions for homework.

Answers
a The fish come from the river, so they have a special taste. OR The fish have a special taste because they come from the river.
b I am from Benin, so I speak French. OR I speak French because I am from Benin.
c He is from Mono region, so he can make dakoin. OR He can make dakoin because he is from Mono region.
d She likes books, so she often reads. OR She often reads because she likes books.
e They love the environment so they planted trees. OR They planted trees because they love the environment.
f She has the best recipe for dakoin, so I always use her recipe. OR I always use her recipe because she has the best recipe for dakoin.

7 The students write some sentences about where they come from based on the examples and the oral practice given in activity 5. You could encourage the students to write additional sentences about their regions as well.

Answers
Answers will vary. The following is an example.
I’m from the Mono region. That’s in the south of Benin. Our favourite food is dakoin. Mono is a beautiful region on the coast. It is green and fertile and it is also an important fishing area. Many tourists visit the region.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES
• Dictate a few sentences from the dialogue. The sentences should be complex. For example: Our people have special dances and traditional music. It’s green and fertile, so everything grows there. The students should note that we use a comma at the end of the clause preceding the clause that begins with so.

• Write the recipe from the Student’s Book (page 88) on the board and erase the verbs, linking words and prepositions. Let the students complete the text orally (or in writing) without looking in their Student’s Books.
• The students can find out about and write out recipes for special dishes from other regions of Benin.
• The students can practise reading the dialogue aloud, paying attention to the pronunciation of new words and the intonation of questions and answers.
• The students can complete the activities on page 67 and 68 of their Workbooks.

5 Let the students mark their own work. Begin by eliciting the correct answers and recording them on the board. Ask selected students to dictate the relevant lines to you:

DAVID: Where are you from?
MARIAM: I'm from Côte d'Ivoire.
DAVID: That's a beautiful country.
MARIAM: Yes, it is.
DAVID: In which part of Côte d'Ivoire do you live?
MARIAM: I live in Sinfra.
DAVID: Is that near the capital, Yamoussoukro?
MARIAM: Yes, it is.

The students can come up to the board and add the circled lines, using a different coloured chalk, if available. They should link the following words:

Line 1: you – Mariam. Line 5: [In] which – Côte d'Ivoire.

6 Let the students correct their own work. Ask selected students to dictate to you the correct number and letter, followed by the complete sentence. Write their answers on the board.

1 – e Fruits and vegetables grow here because the soil is fertile.
2 – c He reads the recipe because he wanted to make the cake.
3 – g He comes from a Francophone country so he speaks French.
4 – h Many tourists visit the region because it is beautiful and interesting.
5 – a She apologized because she didn't listen.
6 – b We love swimming so we often go to the river.
7 – d We grow vegetables so we always have something to eat.
8 – f She helped me because she is my friend.

Speak

1 Revise the use and the pronunciation of the modal verb forms can: can, cannot and can't. Then discuss the picture and read the text in speech bubbles. Ask the students to read the names on the map. Ask who the students are and what they are doing. Make sure the students understand that a ‘first language’ is the first language you learn as a child.

2 The students answer the questions orally.

Answers

a She speaks French, Goungbé and a little English.
b They can speak English.
c In Ghana. People in Ghana speak Akan.
d Personal answers.

Listen & repeat

3 Let the students listen to the names of the countries on the podcast, or read them aloud. Ask the students to repeat the names.

Listen & read

4 Let the students listen to the poem on the podcast, or read it aloud to them. Point out that the poem is based on the name Benin, with each new line starting with a letter in the name. Read the poem for enjoyment – it is easy and does not require an in depth discussion. It provides a model for a simple form of poetry that the students can write themselves.
Your turn

3. The students work in pairs and ask questions about the picture. This is revision.

4. The students ask and answer questions about the languages they can and can’t speak.

Write

7. The students can work in pairs or individually, or you can write a poem with the whole class. They choose the name of a country first and then brainstorm their ideas. They should write down any words that they know that begin with the letters in the name of the country they have chosen. Then they should select the words that are the most appropriate for composing their poems. The poems can be read aloud and displayed in the class as well.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

- Write a few pairs of similar sentences on the board. Then read one of the sentences in each pair aloud and ask the students to identify the sentence you have read. For example:
  - I can speak English but I can’t speak Gourmè.
  - She’s from Zambia so she speaks English. He’s from Zambia, so he speaks English.

- The students can complete the activities on pages 69 and 70 of their Workbooks.

   - Do you like English?
   - And do you like Senegal?

6. A: Hi. My name is Nafi. I’m from Senegal. Which country are you from?
   B: Hello, Nafi. I’m from Ghana. My name is Kofi. You speak English well!
   A: I’m learning! My first language is Wolof but I also speak French.
   B: My first language is Akan. I can speak English, but I can’t speak French.

7. Answers will vary. The students should copy the questions in the example dialogue and then insert their own answers.
Learnin situation 4 – Sequence 3

Listen & read

1 You could start by inviting the students to look at the map and the flag of Benin. Then introduce the words in MY WORD BANK. Alternatively you could play back the podcast or read the text aloud first and then introduce the new vocabulary. Let the students listen to the text a few times and read it silently by themselves.

Teach and revise the prepositions used in the text. Refer to the Grammar check.

Then let the students work in pairs or small groups to ask each other questions about the text. Write this list of words on the board and tell the students to make up any questions they can, using these words: capital city, currency, neighbour, area, population, independent, religion, ethnic groups. For example: Which country is to the north of Benin? What is the area of Benin? What is the capital city?

Write

2 The students copy and complete the FACT FILE about Senegal, using information from the text they have read.

Answers

Benin
Neighbouring countries: Niger, Burkina Faso, Nigeria, Togo
Area: 113,000 km²
Date of Independence: 1st August 1960
Capital city: Port-Novo
Population: 8 million
Main religion: Traditional religions
Main ethnic groups: Fon, Dendi, Alladanu, Adja, Batonu, Yoruba Currency: CFA franc

Your turn

3 Read the FACT FILE about Senegal. Do this with the whole class. Teach or revise the way we say numbers in English and teach the students how to say the years. Refer to the Grammar check.

Teach the past tense form of to become. Refer to the Grammar check.

After that, let the students work in pairs to ask and answer questions about Senegal. This time they should use the given examples as models.

4 Begin by revising comparatives, superlatives and the use of but as a conjunction.

The students read the given information about the areas (in square kilometres) of the different countries. Then they construct some sentences, using the comparative and superlative forms of the adjective small. They should also use the conjunction but, as shown in the example.

After that, they construct some sentences based on the adjective large.

Answers

Lesotho is small. It is the smallest country in Africa.
Ghana is small. It is smaller than Kenya and Nigeria, but it isn’t the smallest country in Africa.
Kenya is smaller than Nigeria.
Ghana is larger than Lesotho.
Kenya is larger than Lesotho and Ghana.
Kenya is large, but Nigeria is larger than Kenya.
Nigeria is the largest country.

Write

5 You may wish to revise the names of nationalities before the students complete this exercise. These usually end in -ese (for example, Beninese) or -an(s) (for example, Malian).

The students copy and complete the table, filling in the names of countries and nationalities.

You can include numbers above 10,000 as well if you think the students are ready for this.

Answers to Workbook activities

1. There are more than fifty countries in Africa. Each country has many ethnic groups. Most Africans speak two or three languages as well as French, English or Spanish.

   Each country has its national colours. Most West African francophone countries have the same colours: green, yellow and red. They also have a common currency, the CFA.

   It’s easy to guess some languages that a West African speaks. If you are from Liberia, Nigeria or Ghana, then you will speak English. If you are from Senegal, Benin or Togo, then you will speak French.

   So, where are you from?

2. Personal answers.

FUN

SB p. 95

1. The students read the clues and solve the crossword puzzle. Remind them not to write in their textbooks. They should copy the puzzle by hand.

   The students can refer to the maps in their books (on pages 92 and 93) or to an atlas.

   Answers

2. The students should be familiar with tongue twisters by now. In this one, the letter s is repeated in most of the words. Read the tongue twister with the students first to check pronunciation and then let them try to read it as fast as they can.

   After that, the students can work in small groups or pairs to make up their own tongue twisters. They could perhaps try using the letters: p, m, h or w. They can use the word lists at the back of their Student’s Books (pages 109-112) for ideas.

3. Read the limerick to the class. Remind the students that limericks are nonsense poems in which the rhythm is very important (there are a fixed number of syllables in each line of the poem).

   The students can clap as they say the words that have been highlighted in red. This will give them a feeling for the rhythm of the poem. If the students like the poem, they could learn it by heart, too.

Speak

1. Talk about the poster. Read the text and introduce the rest of the new vocabulary. Ask some questions to help the students recall how to form the superlative when comparing three things or more (by using the most or by adding -est to shorter adjectives). Remind them that the best is an irregular form (good – better – the best).

Listen & repeat

3. Here the focus is on the sound /tʃ/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Then let the students practise saying the words.
Listen & read

Here the students are introduced to the use of going to + another verb. This construction is frequently used to talk about future intentions and plans.

You can teach this verb form and then revise it again in the following lesson. Refer to the Grammar checks on pages 97 and 99 in the Student’s Book.

Play back the podcast or read the dialogue in the usual way. Ask a few simple questions about the text and then play back the podcast or read the text again. Make sure that the students understand the short answers I think so! and I hope so! Refer to the Grammar check.

Let the students read the dialogue aloud in pairs. Help them to get the intonation of the sentences and questions correct.

Your turn

The students work in pairs to ask and answer questions about the text they have read.

The students practise using going to + another verb to express future plans and intentions. They can use short answers in their replies.

Write

The students use the given words to compile various types of questions. Note that for answer c we could also use going to. In these types of activities, however, the students should echo the given verbs.

Answers
a) Who sent to you the email?
b) Why are you going to visit America?
c) When will she visit her friend?
d) Are they going to see their aunt next week?

The students choose the correct words for each sentence.

Answers
a) Africa has the most beautiful birds.
b) They are the best students, so they will go to America.
c) Will you go to Senegal this year? I hope so.

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

Dictate a few sentences to the students. Include words with /tʃ/ sounds. For example: Check the website for the cheapest tickets. The chief’s chair is the most comfortable.

Let the students work in pairs to make some lists. They can list the things that they will need if they are going to go to another country on holiday. Their lists can include things like clothes and documents.

The students can complete the activities on pages 74 and 75 of their Workbooks.

Answers to Workbook activities

STUDENT A: My father is going to travel to South Africa.
STUDENT B: Really? That’s very interesting.
STUDENT A: What does he need to travel to that country?
STUDENT B: He needs a passport and a visa.
STUDENT A: Is that all he needs?
STUDENT B: No, of course, not! He also needs to book his flight. But tell me. Why is your father going to visit South Africa?
STUDENT A: It’s a nice country. The weather is great. And he wants to visit Soweto and Robben Island. One more thing, what is the cheapest way to fly to South Africa?
STUDENT B: That’s easy. Go on the Internet and search for flights to South Africa. Then check the cheapest flights to South Africa.
STUDENT A: That’s great. I’ll do that. Thanks a lot.

a) Who is going to travel to South Africa?

a) Yes, I hope so!
b) Yes, I will.
c) No, I won’t.
d) No, I won’t.

d) Air Skyline’s flight is cheaper than Air Skybus, but Air Skygo’s flight is the cheapest flight of the three.
Listen & read

The students are going to listen to and read an email. Let them look at the email in the Student’s Book first and then listen to the text.

In this text both will and going to are used to express future actions. You do not have to teach the reasons why we might only use one of them in certain contexts. The activities in this unit contain self-correcting prompts that enable the students to absorb different examples of usage.

Speak

The students can work in pairs to answer these questions or you can discuss the answers with the whole class.

There are different ways of answering the questions, depending on the context. Encourage the students to use pronouns where this would be more natural. You may also wish to increase the students’ awareness of the use of contractions in informal situations.

Answers
a Kevin sent it. (‘Kevin sent the email.’ is an acceptable answer, but it is less natural.)
b He sent it on the 6th of June 2010. (‘He sent the email on the 6th of June 2010.’ is acceptable, but less natural.)
c They’ll arrive at seven / seven o’clock in the morning. (‘Ida and her friends will arrive at 7 o’clock in the morning.’ is acceptable, but less natural.)
d They’ll travel by/in a van. (An answer in a more formal context would begin: ‘They will...’) e They’ll go to the home of their host family and then rest. (An answer in a more formal context would begin: ‘They will...’) f Mrs Nelly will give them the rest of the programme. (An answer in a more formal context would begin: ‘Mrs Nelly, the Principal, …’) g They’ll go to a welcome dinner at the school at 19:00. (An answer in a more formal context would begin: ‘They will...’)

Your turn

This exercise gives the students an opportunity to practise using sequencing words.

Listen & repeat

Here the focus is on the sound /w/. Play back the podcast or read the words aloud. Then let the students practise saying the words.

Your turn

The students work in groups to make up a programme for the second day of Ida’s visit to Washington. Accept all ideas that are sensible and grammatically correct, and help the students with any vocabulary that they might want to use.

Each group can present their ideas to the class and the class can decide which programme is the best (that is to say, the most interesting and the most relevant).

Write

The students copy and complete the sentences, using going to or will. The exercise is self-correcting, so the other words in each sentence will help the students to choose between these two future forms.

Answers
We are going to go to Cameroon next month. We want to visit my cousins. First, we will take a flight to Yaoundé. Then we will get a bus. After that my uncle will pick us up at the bus station. I am going to enjoy the trip. It’s going to be fun!

EXTRA ACTIVITIES

• Dictate a few sentences with words that have the /w/ sound in them, for example: What will the weather be tomorrow? When will we see you? What do you want to wear?
• Collect examples of sentences with will and going to from different contexts. Write them on the board with appropriate gaps and ask the students to supply the missing words.
• The students can draft Ida’s reply to Kevin. She can thank Kevin and ask about the programme. (For example, she can ask what they will do the next day.) She can say something about how she feels and what she thinks she is going to enjoy. Brainstorm some ideas with the whole class before the students try this, modelling the appropriate verb usage.

• The students can complete the activities on pages 76 and 77 of their Workbooks.

1. In this dialogue the students read more about the proposed trip to Washington, but this time the focus is on what the weather will be like (It’s going to be + an adjective) and on how the students feel about the trip. The structure not going to + a verb is also introduced in the dialogue. You can introduce and teach these structures now. Refer to the Grammar check on page 101.

   Play back the podcast of the dialogue or read it aloud. Then ask a few questions about the dialogue and introduce and explain the words in MY WORD BANK, as necessary.

Speak

2. The students read the statements aloud and say whether they are true or false.

   Answers

• Copy part of the dialogue in activity 1 onto the board. Erase every fourth word and let the students complete the dialogue orally or as a writing task.
• The students can write an email (on a PC/laptop or in their exercise books). In the email they should tell a friend about a trip that they hope to make during the next summer holidays. They can dream – it does not need to be real. Brainstorm some ideas with the whole class before the students try this, modelling the appropriate verb usage.
• The students can complete the activities on pages 78 and 79 of their Workbooks.

PROJECT CORNER

SB p. 103

In this project the students make tourist brochures or posters about a country that they would like to visit. The students should discuss their ideas with the geography teacher as they do their research and preparation for the project.

The project is divided into three parts.

PART A

The students do their research. Read the suggestions in Part A with them. Then discuss what sort of information they should present.

The students should write their texts in draft form first. If possible provide feedback to them at this stage. Help them to correct grammatical errors and improve the style of their writing.

The present simple tense would be most suitable for this brochure. Students could also use the future forms will and won’t.

The students should also be able to:
– include some sentences with more than one clause, using and, but or because;
– make some simple comparisons.

Remind the students to look at the word banks in this unit for vocabulary ideas.

The brochures or posters should consist of pictures with labels, as well as paragraphs of written information. The paragraphs should have headings. These headings could take the form of questions or statements.

PART B

The students spend some time planning their posters. They need to think of an interesting title first. The illustration provides some ideas, but the students should look at the brochures you have brought to class and also at the brochures on pages 96 and 101 of their textbooks.

PART C

The students present their posters to the rest of the class. By now the students should be able to present their work with confidence. Remind them to speak slowly and clearly.

You could ask the class to assess each brochure/poster and presentation as they did. The brochures/posters should then be displayed in the class or somewhere in the school.

Let each student assess his/her own performance in the group, using the assessment checklist the bottom of the page.
